Legion Backs Troop Power For President

But Commander Opposes Proposal For Aid Authority

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—The national commander of the American Legion supported half of President Eisenhower's Middle East policy today, urging that "a clear line against communism" be drawn in the area.

W. C. Daniel urged the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees to approve Eisenhower's request for authority to use U. S. armed forces in the event of Communist aggression in the Middle East.

Opposes Aid Proposal

But Daniel expressed opposition to the other half of the Middle East resolution, a proposal to spend 200 million dollars on military and economic aid for the nations of the territory. Money given to some Arab states, he said, "could very well be used as down payments to Russia for military supplies," Daniel added.

"The one thing most needed now, in my judgment, is a firm, unequivocal declaring of the willingness of the American people to answer in kind if the Soviet Union resorts to force.

"This is not time for striped-pants diplomacy. It is no time for letting the dust settle. We must leave no doubt as to what we will do if the Soviets try to fill the vacuum by force.

"Indecision and equivocation got us into this mess. Drawing a clear line against communism may get us out."

Score Give Opinions

Daniel was one of 20 witnesses who gave their opinions on Middle East policy to the Senate committees today.

The House approved both parts of the Eisenhower resolution on a 355-61 vote last week.

Daniel questioned whether American military assistance should be conditioned, as it is in the resolution, upon a request from the government attacked.

As for economic aid, Daniel said the American Legion feels it would "i- all probability prove to be of greater benefit to Soviet Russia than to the United States.

"A giveaway program that builds deposits in the Kremlin treasury and increases the war-making potential of our enemies is not a good program for America," he said.

School Bandsmen Admit 14 Robberies

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 4 (AP)—Six teen-age members of the Miami High School band admitted today they had robbed at least 14 homes in suburban Coral Gables during the past month.

Two of the youths, Mark Osman and Robert Ginader, both 17, were charged with breaking and entering and grand larceny, the other four, two 15-year-olds and two 16-year-olds, were turned over to juvenile authorities.

The youths told juvenile officer Don Clement they planned some of the breaks during or after band practice.

Clement reported the youths told him they picked Coral Gables because they thought "everybody in the Gables had money" and they were sure to "get some thing."

Hoover Sees Depression Signs In Price-Pay Spiral

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—Former President Hoover said today that the current inflation shows signs of a depression "agony" like that which beset his own administration.

Body Of Victim Carried From Mine

A blanket-covered body of one of the 37 men killed in a coal mine explosion at Bishop, Va., yesterday is shown being carried from the mine portal by rescue workers. The first bodies were brought to the surface late yesterday. It was the nation's worst mine disaster since 119 died in an explosion at West Frankfort, Ill., Dec. 21, 1951.

U. S. Pressure Urged Applied To Balky Israel

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Feb. 4 (AP)—Worried by Israel's firm refusal to get out of Egypt without guarantees, U. N. delegates looked to the United States today to take the lead in a new Assembly debate, perhaps Thursday, on the deteriorating Middle East crisis.

The view was expressed by several delegates in private talks that it was up to the United States to bring pressure on Israel in order to obtain compliance with U. N. resolutions requesting withdrawal. The U. S. delegation was silent on these expressions but was engaged in extensive consultations with delegations from various parts of the globe.

Dag And Eban Confer

Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold called Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban to his office for an afternoon appointment. It was delayed for 30 minutes while Eban held a hurried corridor consultation with his foreign minister, Mrs. Golda Meir. Informed sources speculated that Eban had received from Jerusalem the decision of the Israeli government to remain at Sharm el Sheikh, in the Akaba Gulf sector, and in the Gaza Strip for the time being.

Trip By Dag Suggested

One delegate in the Western group said the time had come for Hammarskjold to make another trip to the Middle East in a personal effort to find a solution on the spot.

This delegate, who declined to be identified, said Hammarskjold must work out an arrangement on the Suez Canal, due to be opened to light shipping next month, as well as on the distribution of the U. N. Emergency Force and implementation of the 1949 armistice agreement between Israel and Egypt.

The Assembly late Saturday approved one resolution deploring that Israel had not complied with previous requests to leave and calling on Israel once more to complete the withdrawal from Egypt.

Hoffman Hints Ike Might Run As Democrat In 1960

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.) suggested today President Eisenhower might run for re-election as a Democrat in 1960.

The suggestion came during a House speech in which Hoffman said "The President and his left-wing, free-spending, international one-world advisers propose to dis-infect, fumigate, purify, renovate, unify and remake the Republican party."

Hoffman said he knows a constitutional amendment limits a president to two terms, but he added, "I think perhaps a com-pleasant (Supreme) Court might, rule that means a man may not run for three terms on the same ticket, but if he switched over could constitutionally run again."

The Michigan lawmaker described himself as one of Eisenhower's "loyal supporters, one who keeps him from going too far."

35 Reportedly Abandon Ship

KEY WEST, Fla., Feb. 4 (AP)—Distress calls picked up by a commercial radio station late today started a Navy and Coast Guard dash from Key West to aid 35 persons who reportedly abandoned the Liberian freighter S.S. Nortuna off the Dry Tortugas, at the tip of the Florida Keys.

At 9:55 p.m., no confirmation of the vessel's sinking or her presence in the area had reached Miami Coast Guard search and rescue headquarters, directing the operation.

The site of the reported sinking was 68 miles west of Key West, from which Navy and Coast Guard air and surface craft were dispatched.

Maritime references identified the Nortuna as owned by Ocean Transport Lines, Inc., New York, and flying the Liberian flag. The 7,539-ton three-decker was built in 1920 by Sun Shipbuilding Co., Chester, Pa.

President Presents Citation To Hoover

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—President Eisenhower today presented to former President Herbert Hoover a citation honoring the 83-year-old statesman's contributions to good government. Hoover was chairman of the two Hoover Commissions on reorganization of the federal government.

"Through your efforts ours will be a stronger country," said the citation, awarded at a luncheon meeting of 500 delegates to the 3rd National Reorganization Conference. The citation continued: "In so adding strength to the American Republic, you gave strength to the free world. We are grateful."

Ex-President Pension Bill Passed By Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—The Senate today passed and sent to the House a bill to pay former presidents $25,000 a year for life. Identical legislation died in the House last year after having received Senate approval.

Hopeful Report On Lame Prince Given King Saud

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—King Saud got a new pair of American-made glasses today and an optimistic report from President Eisenhower's doctors on the paralysis hobbling his favorite son.

The 55-year-old Saudi Arabian monarch left affairs of state to aides for the time being. While they worked out details of a general accord he has reached with Eisenhower on Middle East problems, Saud visited Walter Reed Army Hospital and later had lunch in the nearby Maryland countryside.

Cerebral Palsy Victim

At Walter Reed, Saud got this report from Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder, Eisenhower's personal physician; and Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, hospital commandant who operated on Eisenhower last June:

1. The 3½-year-old Prince Masshur is "a healthy, normal child" except for "partial spastic paralysis" of the right arm and leg because of cerebral palsy at birth.

2. Examination since last Thursday showed the right heel cord drawn up, causing an "abnormality of gait."

3. Treatment aimed at improving the gait includes physical therapy and a calf-high leg brace attached to an orthopedic shoe. Therapy must be practiced to improve control of muscles with the help of the leg brace.

Princely Gift For Hospital

4. Surgery is "not indicated at the present time" although possibly "at a later age."

The wide-eyed little boy was led from Walter Reed's presidential suite by his towering father to pose for pictures.

Aides said Masshur endowed the hospital with a perpetual gift of $2,000 a year. This will be used, at the hospital's discretion, for the benefit of child patients.

Television Tower Collapses, Carrying Four Men To Death

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 4 (AP)—A nearly completed television tower a quarter of a mile high collapsed today, killing four men who were working more than half way up.

The tower broke into sections as it crumpled to the ground in the midst of a thickly populated area without hitting any houses. The main sections came to rest lying parallel to each other alongside the transmitter building at its base.

The new broadcasting antenna, finished up to 1,265 of a projected 1,379 feet, was being built for station WSM-TV by the John F. Beasley Construction Co., Muskogee, Okla.

The dead were identified as: Donald Ward Kinnin, 25, Tucson, Ariz.; Ray H. Maxwell, 27, San Mateo, Fla.; George Presler, 33, Union City, Tenn.; and Robert Lee Kirshner, 30, California, Mo. A fifth iron worker, Harold O'Neal, 29, Boonville, N.Y., identified as foreman of the crew, was treated for shock. He had just come down and was inside the transmitter building when the tower crashed. Frank Thompson, 31, Nashville, a WSM employee inside the building was slightly hurt.

Kinnin, interviewed by a reporter a week ago about the dangers of working on the high iron, was quoted as saying: "I would not drive a race car. Too dangerous. My job's safe because I know what I'm doing."

"Besides, more people get killed stepping off curbs than in my line of work."

Two of the men's bodies fell to the roof of the transmitter building, which was only slightly damaged. Two others were found some distance away in the opposite direction from the main antenna fall. All were badly mangled.

The steelwork smashed an unoccupied truck on the ground and set it afire.

Grand Jury Indicts Trio In Spy Case

Refugees Accused Of Selling Secrets To Russian Agents

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (AP)—A federal grand jury today accused three European refugees of handing over American defense secrets firsthand to well-bankrolled Soviet agents. Conviction could mean death.

Money and "other valuable considerations" were said to have oiled the machinery for a ring that conducted furtive operations in this country and Europe.

The indictment spelled out for the first time details of the government's case against Jack Sobel, 53, his wife, Myra, 52, and their old friend from Europe, Jacob Albam, 64. They were arrested in New York Jan. 25.

Sobel has been pictured by the FBI as the man who took the reins of control from the shaky fingers of a hard-drinking Soviet agent who departed this country under an espionage cloud in 1944.

Other Conspirators Hinted

The indictment also contained a mysterious hint of other conspirators "employed by the government of the United States in various capacities and activities in the United States, in Germany, in Austria and in other places, for the purpose of being in a position to acquire information relating to the nation defense of the United States."

So far as is known, neither the Sobels nor Albam ever worked for the U. S. government.

The spy plot was said to have dated back to 1942, when Russia and this country were partners in the war against the Axis powers.

It was the first big American spy case since 1950 when Julius and Ethel Rosenberg were accused of stealing atomic secrets for Russia.

"The government, however, said it will not ask the death penalty, in this case, preferring, if there is a conviction, to leave it up to the sentencing judge whether to exact it."

Won't Ask Death Penalty

To gather data (and) provide funds for the ring, the indictment alleged, Russian agents would "make personal contact with these defendants."

Ten Soviet Russian names were listed. Only a few of them appeared to have any significance to Americans.

One was Vassili M. Zubilin, former third secretary of the Russian Embassy in Washington.

The four Guard generals asked to see Eisenhower in an aftermath of criticisms expressed by Secretary of Defense Wilson last week, Wilson said that a sort of draft dodging scandal developed in Guard enlistments during the Korean War, and that the Guard was not now "a well-trained outfit that could be depended upon."

Heuss Accepts Ike's Invitation To U.S.

BONN, Germany, Feb. 4 (AP)—West Germany's President Theodor Heuss, 73, will visit Washington March 6-8 by invitation of President Eisenhower.

Heuss' office said today he had accepted the invitation. It is understood that, when this official visit ends, he will make a flying tour of the United States in a private capacity. He has never been there.

The President will be accompanied by Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano.

Eisenhower, in extending the invitation, said Heuss would be "the first representative of Germany to visit the United States as chief of state."

Guard Leaders Win Promises From President

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—National Guard leaders reported today a "most satisfactory" reaction from President Eisenhower to their worries that a new Pentagon training order might harm or destroy the Guard.

Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, speaking for himself and three other generals who called on the President, said:

"The President was very gracious and gave us his assurance that he will not permit the Guard to be destroyed. That satisfied me."

No Major Cut In Strength

Reckord said also that Eisenhower promised that the Guard, now about 405,000 strong, will not be "materially reduced in strength." He added, "The net result from meeting with the President was most satisfactory from our point of view."

The four Guard generals asked to see Eisenhower in an aftermath of criticisms expressed by Secretary of Defense Wilson last week, Wilson said that a sort of draft dodging scandal developed in Guard enlistments during the Korean War, and that the Guard was not now "a well-trained outfit that could be depended upon."

Wilson's name was not mentioned at today's White House meeting, Reckord told reporters.

Secretary Wilson, with backing from Eisenhower, has ordered that beginning April 1 all new Guard enlistees be required to take six months of active duty training. Guard leaders say this would discourage young men from enlisting; they have asked that the active duty training be held to 11 weeks so as to fit into school vacations.

European Common Market Pacts Near

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Feb. 4 (AP)—Diplomats of six Western European countries claimed enthusiastically today they have just about finished treaties creating a common market and atomic pool.

If their optimism is justified, these treaties will revolutionize the life of Europe. Tariff barriers will crumble and set up a vast U. S.-type market of some 160 million persons.

"Everything is settled, or practically so," conference chairman Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium told reporters.

He said the foreign ministers would meet again in Paris Feb. 17 and the prime ministers of the six countries would put the final touches to the agreements in the same capital the next day or the 19th. The treaties, Spaak said, probably would be signed March 10.

Arabs Ban Air France

DAMASCUS, Syria, Feb. 4 (AP)—An Arab spokesman said here today the nine nations of the Arab League are banning Air France from using their airports or flying over their territories.

Syria Challenges Pineau's Stand

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Feb. 4 (AP)—Foreign Minister Christian Pineau warned today France would ignore any recommendations the U. N. might make on turbulent Algeria.

In a 20,000-word speech to the U. N. Political Committee, Pineau stressed anew that France regards Algeria as a purely internal matter. He blamed Egypt, the Soviet Union, and international communism for terrorism in the North African possession.

Pineau's speech took up the morning and continued in the afternoon session of the 80-nation committee. He said:

"We have never accepted, we do not accept, and we shall never accept the competence of the United Nations with regard to a problem, which on the strength of international law, we consider to be of an essentially internal nature."

Position Challenged

Syria's Farid Zeineddine, replying to Pineau's 3½ hour speech, immediately challenged the French position. Zeineddine declared Algeria constituted an international problem, "one of the most significant" in the world today.

Zeineddine, who is Syria's ambassador in Washington, declared Algerians are victims of Western colonialism and their struggle for freedom demands the attention of the United Nations.

Pineau asserted France cannot accept any U. N. recommendation on Algeria and added that if one is made "we think it only fair to give solemn warning to the United Nations" that France would in no way feel bound to apply it.

France walked out in 1956 when the General Assembly decided to take up the Algerian issue.

Pineau explained France agreed to have it put on the agenda this year to enable his government to reply to campaigns of disparagement against France, and to stress foreign interference in Algerian affairs.

In charging foreign interference in Algeria, where a bloody Arab nationalist revolt has been raging for more than two years, Pineau declared the Algerian Communist party receives its instructions from "the Communist International."

Hospital Relaxes Rules For Dog

BALTIMORE, Feb. 4 (AP)—Officials at University Hospital will relax regulations tomorrow so that a dog can enter the hospital.

The dog won't be a patient, of course. Just a temporary visitor bound for a brief meeting with his master, John Henry Palmer of South Baltimore.

Palmer, in his 50s and blind, entered the hospital Jan. 28 for some tests. The hospital said relatives reported Palmer's seeing eye dog refused to eat after the man went to the hospital.

Tomorrow's visit is aimed at perking up the animal, hospital officials said. The meeting will be in a special area, away from other patients.

Irish Prime Minister Calls Special Election March 5

DUBLIN, Ireland, Feb. 4 (AP)—Prime Minister John A. Costello, beset by an economic crisis and a spectre of defeat in Parliament, tonight called a special national election for March 5.

The election may mean a comeback for Eamon de Valera, who was prime minister 21 years. Though 74 and almost blind, the New York-born "Dev" has been campaigning vigorously to unseat Costello, who succeeded him in May 1954.

De Valera's chances look good. As a preliminary to the election call, Costello ordered dissolution of the Dail, the 147-seat House of Parliament Feb. 12.

Its members were elected in May 1954 with the expectation of serving five years. But under Irish procedure—resembling Britain's—the government may call a new election whenever it wants. Or a new election may be forced by defeat of the government on a confidence issue.

The voters will choose a new

Bodies Of 37 Men Brought To Surface

Inquiry Launched Into Worst Mine Disaster Since '51

BISHOP, Va., Feb. 4 (AP)—Thirty-seven miners perished today in a rumbling gas explosion deep in the giant Bishop coal mine that burrows under the mountains of the Virginia-West Virginia line.

It was the nation's worst mine disaster since 119 died in a blast at West Frankfort, Ill., Dec. 21, 1951.

There was no immediate official word on what touched off the blast that sent acrid, dust-laden fumes whistling through the mine 337-feet below the surface. A fire-boss had reported the area free of hazard prior to the time the midnight shift went to work. Time of the explosion was set at 1:55 a.m.

At a distance downslope from the disaster site the explosion seemed almost gentle. Charles Vaughan, Bluefield, Va., a survivor, said he heard it "but it wasn't loud at all."

One of Vaughan's companions said it was more like "a big puff of wind."

It appeared to many of the rescue workers that the lives of the 37 were snuffed out by the resulting lack of oxygen rather than the force of the blast.

180 Men Under Ground

About 180 men were under ground at the time but the 37 victims apparently were the only ones in the immediate blast area. First intimation something was wrong down in the cavernous two million-ton-a-year producer of the Pocahontas Fuel Co. came in a phone call to the mine.

Rufus Trail, a mine motorman who was outside after carrying two hams of meat to the diggings, said a miner below reported things didn't look right—there was a heavy accumulation of dust. This call was believed to have come some distance from the explosion area.

The elevator on the Virginia side was jammed at the top and miners began to file out on the West Virginia side from a mountain tunnel which is a normal coal exit.

Relatives and friends gathered at mine entrances on both sides of the line—an area hit less than a week ago by disastrous floods. They held to a waning hope that the trapped men somehow had managed to throw up a barricade against the smoke and fumes. And the Bishop community of 900 began its vigil while rescue teams moved into the mine from the West Virginia side 2½ miles away.

Investigation Launched

At 5:50 p.m., 12 mine cars rolled slowly from the entrance across the West Virginia line with the bodies. Rescue workers, their faces and clothing grimy, rode on the cars, lamps on their hats casting a weird glow in the dusk. Flashbulbs from photographers' cameras flared from all sides.

Twenty minutes later the bodies were laid in a mine company building where physicians began the task of establishing positive identification and making preliminary examinations.

Virginia and West Virginia mine safety officials were joined by U. S. Director of Mines Marling J. Ankeny and an assistant in their check on the possible cause of the worst life loss in U. S. mining in the past five years.

AFL-CIO Postpones Verdict In Unions' Trial Until Today

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 4 (AP)—Last minute cleanup efforts of two unions facing AFL-CIO ouster proceedings on corruption charges were termed "belated," and perhaps inadequate today.

That was the way AFL-CIO President George Meany described moves made by the Distillery Workers and Laundry Workers at their trial before the AFL-CIO Executive Council.

The council postponed until tomorrow a decision on suspending the two groups. The delay was caused by the lengthy defense arguments put up by attorneys for the two unions.

The council did not even get to a third ouster proceedings case, against the Allied Industrial Workers, also on corruption charges. This hearing is to be held tomorrow, after which the council is to decide on all three.

The council's verdicts were awaited as an indication of how far leaders of the 15-million member AFL-CIO intend to go in acting on their announced intentions to clear crooks and racketeers out of the federation.

The cases against the three unions all are based on corruption charges turned up in a 1955 Senate investigation.

Meany disclosed that the Laundry Workers had announced to the council that the union has requested and obtained the resignation of Eugene C. James, Chicago, as Laundry Workers' national secretary-treasurer.

James was charged in the Senate committee's report with receiving a large part of nearly one million dollars diverted from union welfare funds. He previously had only been under a union suspension.

Meany did not detail what other steps the laundry and distillery groups have taken in efforts to forestall AFL-CIO ouster orders. But Meany said he considered the moves "belated," and still leaving a big question whether they were adequate to insure clean unions.

Supreme Soviet To Meet Today

MOSCOW, Feb. 4 (AP)—The Supreme Soviet, Russia's Parliament, opens a semiannual session Tuesday with indications beforehand that Soviet finances will get most emphasis.

The likelihood of a drastic shakeup in Kremlin leadership during the session has shrunk. But diplomats and correspondents have a special interest in the opening day: checking on members of the Supreme Soviet present, in an attempt to determine the government official whom a German blood specialist has been summoned to Moscow to treat.

Although politics is expected to play a lesser role in the sessions, diplomats expect to hear continuing attacks on the Eisenhower doctrine for the Middle East and renewed accusations that "Western imperialism" is being reborn.

There was some talk that Dmitri Shepilov, the Foreign minister, may deliver a major foreign affairs speech.

Shepilov has been absent from public affairs during the last two weeks, reportedly resting.

Convicted Slayer Awaits Execution

MCALISTER, Okla., Feb. 4 (AP)—Declaring he is innocent, Robert Hendricks, 66, awaited execution tonight for the slaying of a fellow inmate, Okla., resident after learning his last chance for a stay had been refused.

Immediately after being told that the State Pardon and Parole Board had polled its members and refused further clemency, Hendricks asked to see Tulsa Tribune reporter Nolen Bulloch. The reporter said Hendricks asked him to clear his name after his execution, set for 12:01 a.m. tomorrow.

Hendricks, who has received several stays of execution, was convicted in Craig County for the Aug. 21, 1954, slaying of cattle buyer Ream Payton, 34. He was charged with slaying and robbing Payton of more than $2,000.

Hendricks served 18 years of a life sentence for another murder 20 years ago. He was convicted of killing and robbing a phonograph salesman in Seminole County. He was paroled from that sentence.

Plane Firms Sued In Wake Of Crash

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 4 (AP)—A $500,000 damage suit was filed against two aircraft companies today on behalf of a 12-year-old boy in last Thursday's air crash over nearby Pacoima.

The action was brought against Douglas and Northrop Aircraft companies in the name of Albert Warren Ballou, a Pacoima Junior High School student who is in critical condition at a San Fernando Valley hospital. His left leg has been amputated.

The suit, filed in Superior Court, alleges the aircraft firms failed to "exercise ordinary care in inspecting, maintaining and determining whether the aircraft were safe for flying over inhabited areas."

A DC7B manufactured by Douglas crashed into the junior high school grounds after colliding in flight with a Northrop jet, which went down in a canyon. Five flares and three schoolboys were killed.

Teacher Strike Ruling Awaited

MANCHESTER, N. H., Feb. 4 (AP)—A Superior Court judge tonight took under advisement a plea by Manchester City officials that he halt—by injunction—a teachers' strike that has closed all 24 public schools in New Hampshire's largest city.

The judge said he will probably issue a ruling tomorrow on the city's bid for a temporary restraining order and permanent injunction against the Manchester Teachers Guild. The guild is an independent organization whose membership includes 340 of the city's 364 public school teachers.

The guild claims the teachers individually decided to stop work in a wage dispute with city officials and that its role in the months-long controversy has been limited to carrying out directives from all the city's teachers.

City officials contend the work stoppage is a violation of teacher contract and "a collectively agreed upon strike pioneered by the guild."

After listening to lawyers for the city and the guild during a day-long hearing that began in Nashua and ended in Manchester, Justice Robert F. Griffith said he would study the case overnight.

Brownell Urges Congress Pass Rights Program

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell declared today there would be no federal encroachment on states' authority in the administration's civil rights program. He urged passage of the legislation to "affirm the Congress' determination to secure equal justice under law for all of our citizens."

Brownell, first witness at a hearing called by the House Judiciary Committee, said the program is designed to protect rights guaranteed by the Constitution through civil action rather than by criminal prosecution as the law now requires.

There was every indication the program faces rough sledding in the House as well as in the Senate. Southern congressmen served notice they were ready to use all parliamentary devices to delay it.

Rep. Colmer (D-Miss.) succeeded in blocking plans of the Judiciary Committee to meet while the House is in session. This may string the hearings out over some time.

Under House rules, all but three exempted committees must recess hearings when the House meets unless given unanimous permission to continue. The three committees exempt from the rule are Appropriations, Un-American Activities, and Government Operations. Colmer objected when Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts requested unanimous consent for the Judiciary Committee to ignore the rule. Such requests usually are granted as a matter of course.

The program, one of the major pieces of legislative business sent to Congress by Eisenhower, calls for laws to protect voting rights and provides for civil damage suits where civil rights have been violated, as determined by the courts.

It also calls for creation of a bipartisan commission to investigate reported violations of civil rights, and for creation of a civil rights division in the Justice Department under an assistant attorney general.

Humphrey Says Spending Reduction Up To People

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey said today the people will have to ask less from Washington if the government is to spend less.

He said he believed that to a considerable degree, "the avoidance of a disastrous inflation depends on the courage, self-restraint and determination of the people themselves."

"If these pressures are continually made for more spending, the Congress responds and the executive must respond, too," Humphrey told the Senate-House Economic Committee.

Humphrey said that unless spending is reduced, he fears there can be no tax cut during the next few years, that a tax cut probably would have to come from a combination of increased revenues and lower spending.

The secretary renewed his invitation to the lawmakers to slash President Eisenhower's 72 billion dollar budget, but again said he did not have any recommendations on specific places to do it.

"If I knew them, then I would have done it long ago," he said.

Humphrey also commented, on the point of budget cuts, that "the President worked at it as hard as any man I've ever seen."

Sen. Olin Johnston (D-SC) told the Senate that it was "unrealistic and unfair" for Eisenhower and Humphrey to call on Congress to cut the budget.

He said the Budget Bureau has "hundreds and hundreds" of employees while Congress has only a relatively small staff.

Duke Of Edinburgh's Secretary Resigns

LONDON, Feb. 4 (AP)—Lt. Cmdr. Michael Parker, 36, resigned tonight as the Duke of Edinburgh's private secretary. News that Parker and his wife had separated was published in London newspapers yesterday.

The resignation was announced by a London law office. Parker, presently is with the Duke, returning to England aboard the royal yacht Britannia from Australia and the antarctic.

Parker and his attractive 34-year-old wife, Eileen, who have been separated for some time, have two children: Michael, 11, and Julie, 8.

Parker, an Australian, is a close personal friend of the Duke as well as his private secretary. Their friendship dates back to the early days of World War II when they served as lieutenants aboard destroyers.

361 Died In Worst Mine Disaster

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (AP)—The biggest mine disaster in 85 years of record keeping occurred Dec. 6, 1907 at Monongah, W. Va. In it, 361 persons were killed.

Thirteen days later, 239 miners were killed at Jacobs Creek, Pa.

Other major mine disasters include:

- Cherry, Ill., Nov. 13, 1909, 259 dead.
- Dawson, N.M., Oct. 22, 1913, 263 dead.
- Centralia, Ill., March 25, 1947, 111 dead.
- West Frankfort, Ill., Dec. 22, 1951, 119 killed in the world's largest coal mine shaft.
- Marcinelle, Belgium, Aug. 8, 1956, 263 dead.

860 Doctor-Refugees

BUDAPEST, Feb. 4 (AP)—The weekly paper Magyar Hírlap said today 860 of Hungary's doctors have fled to the West. It blamed most of these defections on government policy.

Flood Relief To Cost Red Cross $2 Million

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—President Eisenhower was advised today the American Red Cross probably will have to spend more than two million dollars in relief for flooded areas of Virginia, West Virginia and Kentucky.

The estimate was given to Eisenhower by Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, president of the Red Cross who surveyed the areas hit by last week's floods.

"The total effect of the disaster is far greater than had been indicated by early reports," Gruenther said.

Eisenhower already has declared the flooded regions major disaster areas eligible for federal aid.

Town Tax Collector Is Shown Leniency

KINGSTON, R. I., Feb. 4 (AP)—Miss Mary E. Quinlan, 59, for many years deputy treasurer and deputy tax collector of the town of Westerly, was given two concurrent five-year deferred sentences in Superior court today on charges of embezzling $62,769 from the town.

Judge Stephen A. Fanning was told by her attorney that Miss Quinlan, a tall, slim woman with dark hair, who appeared in court on crutches, is suffering from an incurable ailment.

In recommending mercy, Asst. Atty. Gen. William J. Counihan Jr. told the court Miss Quinlan would confine herself to her Westerly home. As a means of restitution, he said, Miss Quinlan had decided the home to the town, which will take it over upon her death.

Somoza Elected

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 4 (AP)—President Luis Somoza, 37, has been elected for a full six-year term by an unexpected landslide majority.

Mine Survivors Were On Right Side Of Shaft

BISHOP, Va., Feb. 4 (AP)—"That shaft is what saved us," Clifford (Blue) Glover used these words to relate why he and over 100 other miners in the Pocahontas Coal Co. Inc. No. 34 pit were alive today.

Glover said "it was too close for comfort," and if it weren't for a shaft used for personnel entry at Horsepen, Va., the other miners probably would have been killed in the explosion which snuffed out the lives of 37.

"Peanut" Brewer and Glover were en route from sections, which were ripped by the blast, with six coal cars to a siding where another tram would pick them up and pull them to the outside of the mine.

"I was sitting on the motor. Next thing I knew I was against the rib in a pile of dust. I don't know whether I was knocked from the motor or not," Glover said.

"I thought I knew what had happened, I wasn't sure. Peanut and I picked ourselves up and could see little for the dust. We tried to make it to the shaft, but when we got there the elevators were blown out.

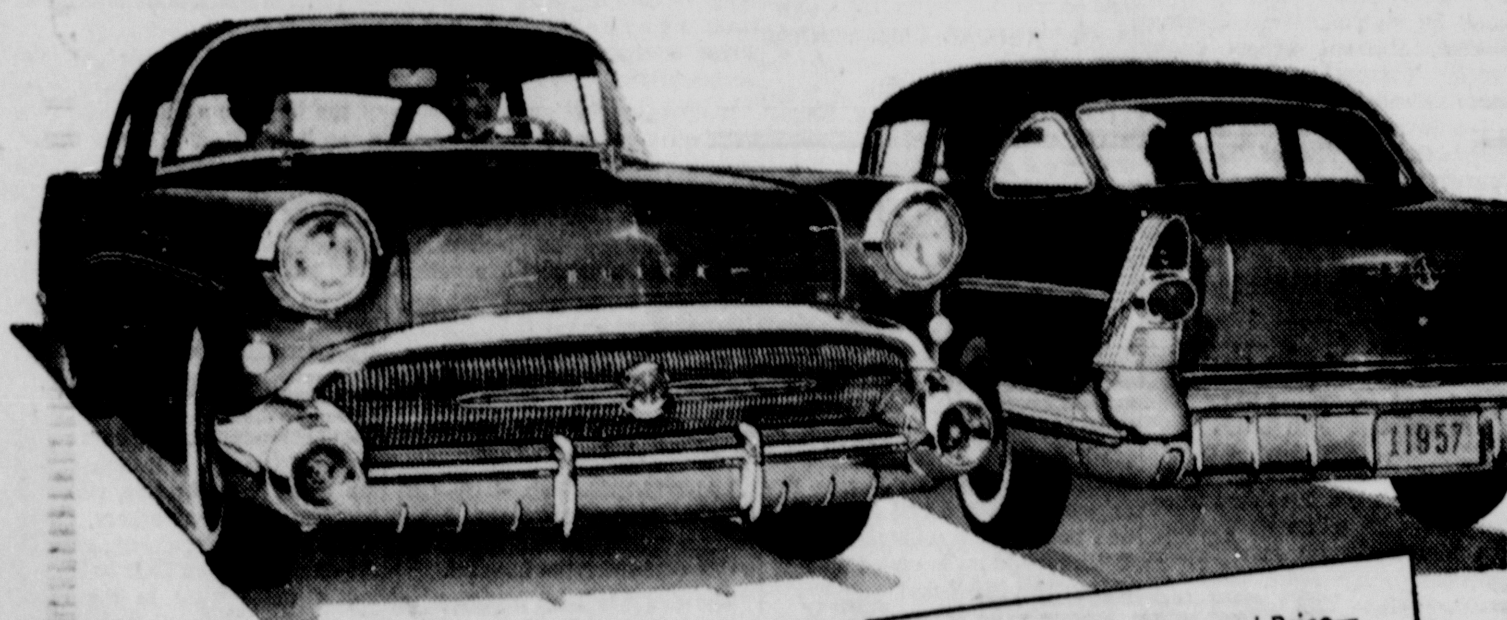

"The stairs were still there, but we couldn't see them in the dust. My first thought was to get out of there and I thought that if I could make it, to Daniel Main. I would get fresh air and be able to get out of there," Glover said.

Daniel Main is the name of a location in the mine.

Glover said he did not know exactly in which section the explosion occurred, but that they were lucky to be on the other side of the shaft.

In an explosion, the force goes to the weakest spot and the shaft provided that outlet. The greatest force went into the shaft, but a lot more force remained even past the shaft.

Legislative Study Group Recommends Increased Mental Hospital Spending

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 4 (AP)—A legislative study group today recommended increased spending for State mental hospitals while the Maryland Assn. for Mental Health urged appointment of a similar committee to study the State's mental hygiene clinics.

Dr. Philip F. Lerner, Baltimore psychiatrist, read the second annual report of the Mental Health Committee he heads.

It urged salary increases for all medical personnel and greater spending for research and training.

Dr. Lerner appeared at a board meeting of the Mental Health Assn., a private organization dedicated to furthering mental hygiene.

Foster W. Talbot of Baltimore, association president, announced that a letter is being sent to legislators urging the creation of a special committee to study the mental hygiene clinics and report back in 1958.

The letter asked lawmakers "to take the same kind of responsibility for our mental hygiene clinics that has been so admirably taken for our mental hospitals."

The House of Delegates set up the Lerner committee to study mental hospitals at the 1955 legislative session.

Dr. Henry A. Segal, director of the Montgomery County Mental Health Clinic at Rockville, explained the operation of clinics to association members.

He said minimum standards established by the National Institute of Mental Health require one full-time clinic for every 50,000 of the population—or 56 clinics for Maryland.

According to these standards, he said, 72 of every 100 Marylanders are being denied the help they need to lead full and productive lives.

Dr. Segal said experts estimate that 900,000 Marylanders— one-third the state's population—suffer or will suffer from "some degree of mental or emotional crippling."

The Rockville psychiatrist said there are uncounted emotionally disturbed children and adults in Maryland who are receiving no care or are being committed to training schools and mental hospitals where they should be getting out-patient psychiatric treatment.

Dr. Segal said clinics should provide diagnosis, treatment, consultation, research and training services. They also should be public information agencies on mental illness and should carry out preventive activities.

Gov. McKeldin's proposed budget for the Department of Mental Hygiene includes no figures for clinical services because of decentralized financing.

But the Mental Health Assn. says clinic service increased last year in only six counties—Prince Georges, Allegany, Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Frederick and Washington—and no evidence is available of any plan for further expansion in 1958.

The governor's budget calls for $18,372,999 for operation of the Department of Mental Hygiene—an eight per cent increase over the current spending program. This figure would raise the average cost per patient per day from $3.97 to $4.31.

The budget request for research funds almost triples the current allowance—$89,826 as compared with $26,263—but Dr. Lerner said the appropriation still falls "far short of what is necessary."

Personnel requirements for the five mental hospitals are up one million dollars in the proposed spending program. McKeldin's budget message said this is due primarily to the staffing of new facilities but also to "the impact of a full year's application of the recent general salary increase and other approved salary adjustments."

The Lerner committee report recommends increases for all medical personnel, including a 20 per cent incentive bonus for psychiatrists certified by the National Board of Psychiatry.

Lerner said his committee made recommendations only for improvements at existing hospitals but his group also feels there is need for the establishment of a new hospital in the Cumberland area to serve Western Maryland.

Other members of the Lerner committee are Dr. Robert S. Hoyt of Baltimore, Del. Hughes (R-Allegany), Del. Kirkland (D-Anne Arundel) and Mrs. Louis W. Oberfield of Baltimore.

Airliner Price Hiked

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—Fairchild Engine & Airplane Corp., Hagerstown, Md., has informed prospective purchasers of its F27 Friendship airliner that there will be a $50,000 price rise Feb. 15.

The company said, in letters to possible buyers, that the new price of the 40-passenger turboprop transport will be $590,000.

W. Va. Senate To Act On Civil Service Bill

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 4 (AP)—The Senate resisted Republican efforts today to amend a major piece of legislation extending civil service throughout the State government and set it up for passage vote tomorrow.

Adopted with almost no dissent were six relatively minor changes proposed by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

One of the most significant would write in penalties of $100 to $500 and or up to a year in jail, or both, for violations of the law or rules which might be promulgated by the Civil Service Commission.

The senators then adopted three changes proposed from the floor by Majority Leader Martin (D-Berkeley) one of which would bring the Department of Public Safety within the merit system provisions.

The Senate voted down several efforts by the Republican minority to amend the bill, including one by Sen. Moats (R-Ritchie) to extend provisions to managers and clerks of State liquor stores; and to the superintendent of county road maintenance and all personnel under his supervision.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill to set up a petition method whereby the conservation director could be forced to call off a previously announced doe-hunting season in a county.

Sponsored by Dels. Kessel (R-Mineral) and Ours (R-Grant), the bill would provide a choice between two kinds of petitions, either of which would require the conservation director to rescind an antlerless deer season if filed at least 14 days before the season.

This could be accomplished by a petition signed by a majority of the county's registered voters or by one signed by 20 per cent of the voters and 31 per cent of the resident landowners holding three or more acres in the county.

Del. Gilmore (D-Tucker) cited depletion of deer herds in eastern counties during recent seasons on deer of either sex as a reason the bill is needed. He said Tucker County's deer kill was 5,000 in the 1951 season, but dropped to 103 last year.

Del. Muntzing (R-Hardy), whose county accounted for about one-third of the state's total deer kill last year, said he has no objection to a two-day doe season and a six-day buck season, but added that a six-day doe season is too long.

"The herd has been destroyed in Grant County, in Tucker County, in Mineral County," Muntzing said. He explained he was supporting the bill to keep the same thing from happening in Hardy County, location of "the greatest herd that is left in the whole state."

The House passed a measure to shorten the West Virginia primary election ballot by removing candidates for alternate delegates to national party conventions.

The bill, approved 84-12, would let those elected as delegates appoint their alternates. It now goes to the Senate.

Episcopal Diocesan Magazine Planned

BALTIMORE, Feb. 4 (AP)—The establishment of a diocesan magazine and the setting up of a new congregation will be among the items considered at the convention Tuesday and Wednesday of the Episcopal Church, Diocese of Maryland.

The 173rd annual convention will be held at The Cathedral Church of the Incarnation in Baltimore.

Clergy and lay delegates will consider establishment of a separate congregation to be known as The Church of St. Paul the Apostle, now known as St. Paul's Chapel and located on the Baltimore-Washington Boulevard.

The proposed magazine would be sent to all members of the diocese.

State Motorists Oppose Periodic Re-Examination

BALTIMORE, Feb. 4 (AP)—Near final figures in a State-wide survey showed today Maryland motorists are against being re-examined every three years for drivers licenses.

However, they are overwhelmingly in favor of driver education in high schools, chemical tests to determine drunkenness and compulsory auto insurance, the survey showed.

The Automobile Club of Maryland said its survey was just about complete and final tallies would go out soon to State legislators and various State officials interested in motor vehicle legislation.

The General Assembly is studying a number of motor vehicle proposals.

The auto club said its tabulation of 8,271 questionnaires showed that on the question of re-examination, 1,446 were against it and 3,605 favored it.

The club gave these other figures:

Inspection of motor vehicles: for, 4,406; against, 3,654, including 2,797 who favored the job being done by State-owned garages.

Driver education in high schools: for, 7,235; against, 743.

Chemical tests to determine drunkenness: for, 7,579; against, 620.

The club sent out 30,000 questionnaires, 24,000 of them to its members and 6,000 to non-members.

Baltimore Bowling Alley Swept By Fire

BALTIMORE, Feb. 4 (AP)—Explosions and fire caused an estimated $275,000 in damages today to the 22-alley Franklin Bowling Center.

The fire was out of control for over two hours. Firemen were hampered by thick black smoke pouring from the building. Explosions blasted out windows and sent flames shooting out every opening. Westbound traffic on U.S. 40 in Baltimore had to be rerouted around the scene of the fire and patrons from a nearby bar were evacuated.

Carolyn Murray Wed To Eugene McGreevy

Miss Carolyn Lorean Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Murray Sr., 852 Columbia Avenue, became the bride of Eugene James McGreevy, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Owen McGreevy, 240 North Mechanic Street, Saturday.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized at a nuptial mass at 7:15 o'clock in St. Patrick's Catholic Church with Rev. John U. Wyness officiating. Bouquets of white gladioli and candelabra of lighted tapers decorated the altar.

Mrs. Catherine Murray was her sister's matron of honor and only attendant, while Arthur McDade served as Mr. McGreevy's best man.

The bride chose a beige colored dress for her wedding. With it she wore black accessories and completing her costume, she carried a white prayerbook. Her attendant was attired in a blue brocade blouse with black velvet skirt and had black accessories.

Mrs. Murray selected a two-piece, blue taffeta dress trimmed in rhinestones and pearls, for her daughter's wedding. She also wore black accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray entertained the immediate families at a wedding breakfast honoring their daughter and her bridal party. It was held at their home, following the ceremony. The table was decorated with assorted white flowers and centered with a tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom.

The bride is a graduate of Ursuline Academy and St. Joseph College, Emmitsburg. Until her recent resignation, she was employed as a service representative by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

Prior to entering the Army, where he served three years, Mr. McGreevy attended Allegheny High School. He is employed as an explosive operator at Allegheny Ballistics Laboratory.

Upon their return from their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. McGreevy will reside at the Stegmaier apartments, North Centre Street.

Personals

Robert McMahon, 628 North Centre Street, is a surgical patient at Memorial Hospital.

Miss Delores Sheetz and Gerald F. Brooling, have returned to Baltimore, after spending the weekend with the former's uncle, R. L. Blake and family, 626 Montgomery Avenue. They attended the marriage of her cousin, Miss Patricia Blake.

Sodality Plans For Activities

The St. Mary's Sodality held a reception service for five new members preceding the business session Sunday evening in the church hall. The new members are Mrs. Bertha Lydinger, Mrs. Susan Luffman, Mrs. Louise Melvin, Mrs. Alvena Barrett and Mrs. Kathleen Grabenstein.

Mrs. John Clancey welcomed the new members, presided at the business session and appointed three consultants to assist the other consultants. They are Miss Mary Doll, Mrs. Mary Castle and Mrs. Raymond Grabenstein. Mrs. Andrew Saliga gave the treasurer's report and the group voted $5 ad for the high school paper.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Rev. Robert F. Hopkins, who also commended the members for their cooperation in activities promoting the spiritual welfare of the parish.

Planning activities for this month, it was decided to hold a bake sale February 11 in the church hall, the proceeds for the school fund. Mrs. Jeremiah Deibaugh and Mrs. Mary Mallozzi Band 2 will have charge of the bake sale next month, with Miss Dill and Mrs. Jesse Clark chairmen. There will be no social as the Alhambra is having a spaghetti supper the same evening.

A social followed the meeting and Valentine poems were recited by Winnie Fresh, Ann McDade, Joyce Deibaugh and June Barrett, high school students. Approximately 50 members attended.

Debra Brant Honored On Third Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Twigg, Cresaptown, entertained with a party honoring their granddaughter, Debra Lee Brant, in celebration of her third birthday. It was held Friday evening at their home.

A Valentine motif was carried out in the decorations with red and white streamers, valentines and balloons. Games were played and prizes won by Mrs. Samuel Harrison, Linda and Lois Harrison and Mrs. Otis Boor. Concluding the evening, refreshments were served.

Other guests were Susan Chaney, Pamela Boor, Toni Sue Boor, Debra Youngblood, Gregory Cookerly, Jeffrey Cookerly, Margaret Brant, L. A. W. A. N. A. Twigg, and James Twigg.

Adults attending were Mrs. Mosby Boor, Mrs. Harold Beck, Mrs. Carl Brant Sr., Mrs. Harold Cookerly, Mrs. Leonard Chaney, Mrs. George Cecil, Mrs. Eugene Youngblood and Mr. and Mrs. James Twigg.

Cresaptown YDA To Give Musical

The Cresaptown Young Adult Fellowship decided to sell Easter eggs again this year, and Mrs. Raymond Crowe outlined plans for a musical program March 1, at the meeting of the fellowship, Friday evening. It was held in the church social hall following a chicken supper. Because of the musical there will be no business meeting in March. Refreshments are to be sold following the musical program.

Fred Willison presided and announced a sub-district rally for February 5 in Frostburg. Rev. Adam Grimm is to be the speaker.

A note of thanks was sent to Spates Roblyer, who donated glass covers for the flower stands, communion table and altars.

Devotionals were conducted by Mrs. Raymond Crowe, who read the story "That Extra Boost," on power of prayer by Bob Richards, in "Guideposts." She also offered prayer. The group sang "Sweet Hour of Prayer."

Miss Evelyn May reported $185.94 in the treasury; the total cost of the Nativity scene was $72, as some materials were donated; and $10 was the offering for the evening.

The evening concluded with recreation in the form of Valentine games with Mrs. Charles Frankenberg in charge. Others present were Rev. Raymond Crowe, Stephen Crowe, Mrs. Fred Willison, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Gomer Horton, Mr. and Mrs. Gomer Horton, daughter, Janice; Mrs. Ellsworth Lewis, Barbara Ann Horton, Reta Mae Lewis, Charles Frankenberg and Miss Susan Smith.

Semper Fidelis Bible Class of First EUB Church will meet Friday at 8 p. m. at the church. Class sisters will be revealed. Mrs. Frank Wilson, Mrs. Walter Clark and Mrs. Chester Crabtree will be hostesses.

Jean Rowland Circle of Melvin Methodist Church will hold an anniversary dinner at 6:30 tomorrow evening at Moon's dining room. Mrs. Helen McGuire and Mrs. Palmer Adams are in charge of arrangements.

Grace WSCS will meet tonight at the church.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Active In Beauty Ways

However busy you are, there are often times when you could be doing more than one thing. It will help in your progress toward beauty. And the more you do them . . . the bigger strides you'll be making toward your goal.

Here are a few suggestions: While working around the house, apply baby oil or rich emollient to face (if skin is oily, eliminate this step) and keep your hair in pin curls. Leave both on until you go out to shop. Do all this after husband leaves for work.

While listening to radio, you can do eye and hand exercises; and give yourself a facial.

While doing housework, apply hand cream and wear gloves.

While walking to and from the park with your baby, practice good walking posture and do your deep-breathing routine.

While watching T.V. brush your hair; do some bosom and back exercises at commercial time; do your ankle and foot strengtheners.

While at the counter preparing vegetables, practice good sitting posture.

While waiting for someone to answer the telephone, do your chin and neck exercises; practice good sitting or standing posture.

While doing the dishes, work for increased resonance in your speaking voice which will give more pleasure to your listeners by humming "m" (really hum) and hold one pitch as long as your breath lasts. Then during the day hum your favorite tune — this is good for the "m" in morale, too.

While drying yourself after a bath give yourself a brisk rub-down with a towel — it's a splendid stimulation for the circulation and helps to firm the contours.

Tomorrow — What do your shoes say?

Group To Make Infirmary Lap Robes

The Welfare Group of the Woman's Civic Club formulated plans for the next two months and received a report on the past six months at the bi-monthly meeting yesterday at the new club house. Mrs. John S. Cook Sr. presided.

Plans were made to visit the County Home and Infirmary February 26. Club members are being asked to make lap robes for the inmates. To create a good social atmosphere it was decided to have a committee serve refreshments following each meeting.

A report of the past six months included an offering made by the entire civic club at the annual Christmas luncheon to supply the Welfare group with funds for its program. This year the group took fruit and candy to the County Home at Halloween and held a devotional service for the inmates. At Christmas, nylon hose were given to the women and handkerchiefs to the men. Candy and grapes, an unusual treat, also were given. Candy and bananas were given to the inmates of Sylvan Retreat, and small boxes of powder, Christmas wrapped, for the trays for 85 patients in the infirmary.

At Christmas, the group also visited the Keating Memorial Day Nursery with treats for the 26 pre-school-age children.

By the request of some of the members at Sylvan Retreat, in October some of the group made certain kinds of cake, that are not usually served there. The cakes were served by the group.

The Welfare group also supplied funds for the Mental Health chairman to buy a gift amounting to $10 for a state patient who would not otherwise have had a gift. The Stamp chairman sent more than 1,500 stamps to veterans' hospitals. It was reported

Alberta Morton, Mrs. Sara Barringer, Mrs. Mabel Miller, Mrs. Elizabeth Lamp, Mrs. Edna Murray and Mrs. Mazie Winters will be in charge of refreshments.

A Tribute To Sylvan Retreat

Visitors to Sylvan Retreat are agreeably surprised by the cleanliness, the orderliness and the quiet efficiency with which it is run by the Allegheny County Commissioners and Superintendent and Mrs. Raymond G. Messmer. There are about ninety patients who are looked after by Dr. J. E. McLean and a staff of thirty-eight employees. Many volunteer groups bring religious services to the Retreat and others bring magazines, books, and movies to cheer up the patients.

Sylvan Retreat is an institution of which Allegheny County citizens can be proud.

by Bob Considine

ALLENHURST, N. J., Feb. 4 (INS)—The boy's mother, who is needed every day and many nights in the city, because of her radio and column, said to his father, "You talk to him. He wants to live here year around. He doesn't want to move back to New York." It was pretty shocking.

The father took him for a ride in the car and let him steer it along a quiet road for a time before broaching the subject.

"This was just a temporary thing, going to school out this way," the father said. "We miss you so much. We should be together."

The father had been through this before. He knew it was no use to try the old one about "but that's my job." And while he was attempting to figure out something new the boy spoke.

"Pop," he said, "I know every kid in this town. From the time I was born I lived on Park Avenue or Fifth Avenue or some place like that and I never knew nobody. To get to a kid's house I met at school, when I went, I had to take a cab. Now I walk a couple doors or take my bike and I don't have to ask you or his parents if it's okay. He's my friend."

The boy broke off to yell a greeting to several children whacking a snowman together. He called them by name, and they called back.

The father and son drove on in silence for a time.

"I'll tell you who they were, Pop," the boy said. And he named all of them, throwing in the names of others we passed.

"Here's how old they are," he said, after a time. And he named them by name again. Most of them seemed to be between 11 and 14.

The father, who invented quiet desperation and lived it to the hilt, said, "You haven't seen 'Around the World in 80 Days' yet, have you? You'll really like it. Seems that David Niven—you remember, he painted a picture for us when you were, well, when you were younger—takes this bet that he can't go around the world in 80 days and, well, after a lot of troubles . . . but I don't want to spoil it for you. Then there's ice skating at the place where you learned, the Rockefeller Plaza rink, and that good school . . ."

"But I like the school I go to out here," the boy interrupted. "And here's the telephone numbers of the kids I just mentioned." And as the father toiled along the pleasantly unhampered roads, the boy rattled off an impressive list of numbers.

The city-minded father searched for a chance to demolish the litany of digits beginning with Dunkirk, Prospect and the other neighborhood exchanges. And then he saw it quite clearly. An exurbanite lady, plainly bent on keeping an appointment at the Busy Beatrice Beauty Salon she past in her car, followed by yapping, panting dog.

"Look at that," the father thundered. "She doesn't know her dog slipped out and is chasing her. I'll make a U-turn here and maybe catch up with her and . . ."

"Pop," the boy said. "Don't bother. That's Trixie. She doesn't belong to Mrs. Snacklebush, who is driving the car. Trixie belongs to Carmelia McCarthy, Dunkirk 9-3970, and chases all cars."

The boy's father and mother had a morose time back in New York that night, even though Elsa Maxwell appeared at a party as Baby Leroy.

Open Truck Door Pins Man To Tree

MARSHALLVILLE, Ga., Feb. 4 (AP)—A man spent 21 hours Saturday and Sunday trapped between a tree and the door of a truck deep in a wooded section.

Although the truck was equipped with a two-way radio, he couldn't reach the microphone with his one free arm to inform leaders of a large searching party of his whereabouts.

Frank Hester of Fort Valley, a meter reader for the Flint Electric Membership Corp., was admitted to a hospital in fair condition.

Hester, 49, was reading meters along the company's lines about 3 p.m. Saturday when he parked his truck on an incline near a lake. The truck began to roll and an open door pinned Hester to a tree.

Two unidentified men found Hester about noon after an all-night search by citizens and officers of four counties.

68,342-3 Against Ike

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 4 (AP)—The newspaper Al Shaab announced today the results of a poll of its readers on President Eisenhower's Middle East doctrine: Three for it and 68,342 against it. Those who voted yes are identified as two lawyers and a university student.

Crow, used in the sense of bragging, originated in cock fighting where the victor crowed over his opponent.

There are about 21 million bicycles in use in America at the present time.

PRINCELY MESSAGE—Little Prince Mashhur, held by his father, King Saud of Saudi Arabia, displays a "thank you" note upon leaving Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington yesterday. The message is addressed "to the American children and other friends who have sent me messages and gifts and who have prayed for my recovery." DEW Line May Be Completed By July

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—The final and farthest north of the three continent-spanning radar networks to warn of enemy bombers is expected to be completed by July. If all goes well it will be in full operation before the end of the year.

Secretary of the Air Force Charles E. Quisenberry told the House Armed Services Committee last week that the main portion of the Distant Early Warning line—DEW line—is now nearing completion and will meet its scheduled operational date. The published version of Quisenberry's closed-door testimony did not give dates. But Canadian officials have said the American-built DEW line in Alaska and the Canadian north is expected to be completed in July.

New Job For Kelly

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 4 (AP)—Charles (Commando) Kelly, famed hero of World War II, today began work for the State Highway Department as a materials engineer. Kelly some time earlier had said he was considering an offer to work for a St. Louis scrap metal firm. However, about two locusts weeks ago he said he had changed his mind. Chief difference between locusts and grasshoppers is that locusts have shorted antennae. Grasshoppers include all insects called locusts.

Temporary Appointment Made At Council Meet

Carolyn Y. Welsh has been appointed by the Mayor and Council as a temporary employee in the capacity of stenographer in the Police Department.

The appointment, effective January 14 and with a salary of $252.50 a month, is a result of the position being declared vacant by the Civil Service Commission. The temporary appointment will be effective until the commission supplies an eligible list. An examination is scheduled February 25.

Council also appointed William Torkington and John Rollins Jr., certified public accountants, as CPAs for the city for two years beginning July 1, 1956, to examine and adjust books and accounts.

Among routine reports filed today were:

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan reported the department made 920 arrests last month and fines totaled $1,067. There were 49 fire calls but damage was minor.

Tax Collector George E. Davis reported the following collections for the month: General, $59,537.56; general improvement bonds, $11,106.35; sewer bonds of 1951, $344.37; water rents, $36,812.38; total $107,800.66.

Water commissioner William J. Edwards said his department installed 17 new meters; renewed 11 service lines; and had two applications for taps and six for meters.

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said 51 catch basins were cleaned and the Baltimore Street subway three times; black top was used to fill holes on seven streets, concrete on three and one sidewalk. The department also potholed 12 light surface streets with cold mix.

City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery listed receipts of $1,652.25 including $426.75 from the Sunday movie tax; $911 from bingo tax and recreation admission tax on bingo; and $314.25 from recreation admission tax.

Filed was a letter from the Optimist Club supporting the charter amendment proposal to create a "Recreation and Parks Commission."

C. L. Brotemarkle, assistant superintendent of Evitts Creek Water Company, said the water level at Lake Gordon is three inches above the crest of the spillway and at Lake Koon two inches above. Consumption for the week ending yesterday was 85,230,000 gallons compared to 80,280,000 the same period a year ago.

Reverberations make a cake "fall" by breaking the tiny air cells which cause it to "rise."

Future Fund Cuts To Be Discussed

The Mayor and Council will meet at 4 p. m. Wednesday to discuss possible reductions in appropriations because of state revenues being withheld by the State Roads Commission for debts outstanding against the city.

The meeting was set up at the suggestion of Finance Commissioner John J. Long after council had been urged by Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz to give the matter prompt consideration.

Long suggested City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson, City Attorney Thomas B. Finan and heads of all departments who have control of labor and costs attend. He said an attempt should be made to reduce operating costs for the remainder of the fiscal year and "save" the approximately $61,000 which the city will need to make up the deficit.

Sends Letter

Buchholtz was unable to be present at yesterday's session of council but sent a letter concerning the situation. He said the matter is of grave concern to his department. He said the state gasoline tax money is being held "because we are in default of (1) our initial payment on the crosstown project (Thruway); (2) for funds withheld by the Bureau of Public Works because of their claim that parking regulations had not been enforced on Bedford Street; and (3) the additional money that the state says is due them from the Frederick Road project."

He cited Gibson's warning that appropriations must be reduced proportionately, except those mandatory ones, in order to meet the deficit. It is important to his department that the matter be undertaken at once so work schedules and payroll needs could be adjusted, Buchholtz said.

Drainage Problem

Buchholtz also wrote council concerning a drainage problem he said he believes will result from the use of fill in the area of Cessna Lumber Company below the Western Maryland Railway station. He said the fill will block surface water from draining off and that a storm sewer should be placed under the fill extending through to the C&O Canal.

The matter was referred to city engineer Charles R. Nuzum for investigation and report.

Benefit Dance Set

District 16 Volunteer Fire Company will hold a dance Thursday evening at the North Branch Fire Hall with the proceeds going to the March of Dimes. No admission will be charged, but an offering will be taken.

During World War II, France lost 25 per cent of her locomotives.

Class Plans 25th Reunion

The Rapplier Club, made up of members of the LaSalle High School class of 1933, gets off to an early start for its 25th anniversary reunion, to be held January 1, 1958. Making plans at the first committee meeting are (seated, left to right) John J. Loibel, Marcus A. Naughton, club president; Paul G. Stakem; standing, Howard T. Carolan and Raymond B. O'Rourke. The club has held a reunion every New Year's night for the past 24 years.

Progress In All Phases Of Scouting Is Reported By Committee Chairmen

Progress in all phases of Cub and Boy Scouting in Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, during 1956 has been reported by Dr. Thomas Bess, Keyser, council president.

The annual report of the various council committee chairmen indicated a banner year for the Scout movement in Allegany and Garrett Counties in Maryland, and Mineral, Hampshire, Grant and Hardy Counties in West Virginia.

Membership increased from 1916 boys at the end of 1955 to 1976 this December 31, according to Ivan L. Hall, this city, council organization and extension chairman.

Leaders Increase

The number of packs, troops and posts increased from 72 to 82 units.

The goal for this year is 2,222 boys and 95 units, Hall reports. The number of adult leaders registered increased from 731 as of January 1, 1956, to 852 as of December 31, 1956.

There were 70 different sponsoring institutions, but only one backed three units, a Cub Scout pack, a Boy Scout troop and an Explorer post. That is Grace Methodist Church in Keyser, Hall observed.

Ross O. Decker, this city, council camping and activities chairman, reported 470 different Scouts attended Camp Potomac this past summer.

This accounts for 38 per cent of all Boy Scout and Explorer Scouts and the percentage is above the regional and national averages.

Most Go Camping

Forty-five posts or troops participated in ten or more days of camping. This was 76 per cent of all troops or posts registered in the council.

Eight groups had some camping but six had no camping whatever, Decker said.

In other activities, the camporees had a total attendance of 575 boys. One hundred three explorers and Scouts attended the Citizens Now conference at Potomac State College, Keyser, by the council.

K. S. McKee, Keyser, council leadership training chairman, said 47 of the 82 Cubmasters, Scoutmasters and Explorer advisors had basic leadership training courses during 1956.

Take Leadership Courses

Of the 92 assistant cubmasters, scoutmasters and Explorer advisors in the council, 33 of them took basic leadership training courses as did 57 per cent of the 106 Cub pack den mothers. Sixteen of the 21 commissioners also took the courses.

The council advancement chairman reported that during the year 182 Cubs qualified for Wolf badge.

Sloan Is Endorsed

Mountain District, American Legion met Sunday in Lonaconing and endorsed John W. Sloan for the office of department commander.

Sloan, who resides in Baltimore, is a member of Fort Cumberland Post 13. The election is scheduled for July.

Honor Society Ceremony Scheduled At Fort Hill

Thirteen members of this year's graduating class will be inducted into the Fort Hill High School Chapter of the National Honor Society at a silver anniversary ceremony at 9:45 a. m. Friday. The ceremony originally had been planned for the previous day.

Alumni members of the chapter, both Pennsylvania Avenue and Fort Hill graduates, have been invited to attend the ceremony which will be featured by a memorial service to be conducted by Harry W. Amtower, professor of psychology at the University of Baltimore and a charter member of the Fort Hill-Pennsylvania Avenue Chapter of the Honor Society.

A member of the 1932 graduating class at Pennsylvania Avenue, Amtower has an A. B. degree from American University and a B. D. degree from Drew Theological Seminary. While studying at Drew Seminary, he served as pastor of several Methodist churches in Harford County.

Besides his teaching at the University of Baltimore, Amtower is also instructor of psychology at Sinai Hospital, Baltimore, and for Esso Standard Oil of Baltimore.

The induction ceremony for the 13 new members of the Fort Hill Chapter will be conducted by Calvin Kliffner, Harold Ross, Nancy Curry, Terry Weltman, Sharon Baldwin, JoAnn Savilsky and Wayne Martz.

In charge of the registration of alumni members of the unit are Miss Christine Alderton, a member of the Fort Hill faculty and a 1944 graduate of the school, and Mrs. Mary Louise (Beech) Grimm, member of the 1936 graduating class at Fort Hill.

Cumberland Council To Confer Degree

Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus, will conduct a first degree initiation today at 8:30 p. m. at the council home. Thomas E. Carroll, grand knight announced yesterday the council will sponsor a benefit "Fun Night" on Friday, Carroll said the affair will be known as "Divco Fun Night," and the proceeds will be given to the Allegany County League For Crippled Children.

Friday, February 15, the council's annual Valentine dance will be held, at 10 p. m. Happy Laughner's Orchestra, of Youngstown, will provide music.

Children under five years of age comprise about 11 per cent of the population of the United States.

Studebaker-Packard matches the superior performance of its built-in Supercharger with the most effective brakes on the road.

Today's higher horsepowers, greater weight, higher speeds demand brakes with extra margins of safety. Here are four important ways that Studebaker-Packard gives you this additional safety:

- 1. Largest brake linings. 195.3 square inches of brake lining are carried by the Studebaker Golden Hawk—largest, safest brake lining area per pound of car of any automobile made today!
- 2. Air-cooled drums. Heat robs brakes of their effectiveness. Studebaker-Packard was first with specially "finned" air-cooled brake drums that actually double the effective cooling surface.
- 3. Self-Centering. The entire, oversized brake lining area is automatically brought into uniform contact with the drums. Reduces wear and assures unswerving, straight-line stops.
- 4. Self-Energizing. The forward motion of the car itself helps apply the brakes. You get greater safety, easier pedal action.

Better brakes, superior acceleration, surer handling add up to Command Performance. Drive the '57 Studebakers and Packards at your dealer's, today.

Options Sought By City For Widening Franklin St.

The Mayor and Council yesterday authorized City Attorney Thomas B. Finan to proceed with securing of options for the widening of Franklin Street from Mechanic to Centre streets.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said work is expected to progress as funds become available. Finance Commissioner John J. Long posed a question about the cost and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum said construction is expected to be less than $5,000. Property acquisition will be in addition to this amount.

Finan said estimated property cost is $14,000. Long pointed out that $100,000 had been set aside under the urban development program for the Franklin and George Street cutoff projects. He said "$30,000 of this is gone leaving $70,000."

Plans call for widening the 16½ foot street to 30 feet, with five foot sidewalks.

Eves was authorized by council to execute an agreement with Phillip T. and Joan F. Carolan, Howard T. and Mary E. Carolan for property at the corner of Knox and Centre streets. The city desires to widen Knox from the B&O Railroad tracks to the intersection with North Centre Street. Cost involved in the easement transaction is $1,850.

Council also accepted an offer from the Department of the Interior under which the federal government would pay $9,000 and the city $6,000 for correction of a drainage problem in the bed of the C&O Canal in the Offutt Street vicinity. Eves said money from the government will not be forthcoming until the job is completed and a certified work order submitted. He said the proposal is better than expected since the city had not anticipated any federal aid on the $15,000 project being done by Moyer Brothers, contractor for the sewage treatment plant.

Action was withheld on a request from the B&O which asked the city to take steps to abandon portions of the street beds of Oregon, Utah and Massachusetts in connection with its yard expansion project. The proposal would also include the beds of some alleys.

No action was taken, at the request of City Engineer Nuzum, who pointed out the city should have a copy of State Roads Commission right-of-way maps for the Industrial Boulevard in that area before granting permission. Otherwise, he said there is no way to determine what portions of the streets can be closed. Council agreed with Nuzum despite the fact a note on the B&O application from F. V. Dreyer, chief locating engineer of the SRC, indicated the railroad's plan did not interfere with the Boulevard project.

County Men Listed In Senate Report

The Senate Elections Subcommittee has reported contributions of $500 or more to the 1956 Republican general election campaign with three Allegany county men listed among Maryland contributors.

They are U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, Frostburg, $2,000; Lewis J. Ort, Cumberland, $1,000; and Harry Ort, Frostburg, $500. Other Maryland contributors included Raymond Guest, Frederick, $500, and R. J. Funkhouser, Centerville, $1,000.

United Fund Group Approval Seen

A committee appointed to study the advisability of a United Fund organization is expected to voice approval of its establishment at a meeting today at 7:30 p. m. in the Allegany County Court House.

William R. Carscaden issued an invitation to the Mayor and Council yesterday to attend. He said all cities and towns in the county, business, labor and other organizations have been asked to send representatives to the meeting.

Temperature Is Reported Near Normal During 1956

Cumberland's weather was only one-tenth of a degree under normal during 1956, as far as the temperature was concerned. The average was 52.9 degrees as compared to a 53 normal.

The records kept here by the Weather Bureau also reveal that it was not a year of great contrasts although there was frost later than usual in the spring and another earlier than usual in the fall.

The coldest day of the year was on January 28 when the mercury dropped to eight degrees. The hottest day was on June 13 when it hit 95 degrees.

There were nine months that were colder than normal, but an extremely warm December kept the annual figure from being lower than it was.

December, February and October were warmer than normal for those months.

The period, March through September, that was colder than average.

Senate, House Committee Are Swamped With Bills

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 4 (AP) — The cut down on the flood of bills at 1957 Legislature is off to a flying start on bill introduction, even though it can no longer legislate for individual cities and towns. In the first 23 legislative working days, 592 bills had poured into Senate and House committees, 191 more than for the same period in 1955—the last previous 90-day session at which local bills could be considered.

That was also the session which implemented municipal home rule, a move that sponsors felt would

Lions To Hear Talk On Lincoln

Harry Stegmaier, local attorney, will be guest speaker at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Cumberland Lions Club which will be held at 12:15 p. m. Wednesday at Central YMCA.

His talk will be on Abraham Lincoln.

During a board meeting of the club held recently, Lions Foundation Inc. reported 12 eye examinations and 12 pairs of eye glasses were afforded school children during the month of January.

It was also reported that $100 was contributed to the local March of Dimes drive and a similar contribution given to the local Red Cross drive.

On Wednesday, February 13, all new Lion members will be formally inducted into the membership. According to the records of the club, the following new members should plan to be in attendance at the meeting:

Herbert Kurtz, James W. Stern Jr., Rabbi Gabriel Maza, William Wadsworth, Leonard Cody, Harry A. Smith Jr., Joseph Shuman, and Arthur Friedland.

Goodman Gets

The General Assembly and to the taxpayers of Maryland." Then Turnbull added what he called "this paraphrase of something that's probably been said before."

"Count that day lost. When all is said and done, that sees not the name of Philip In the Evening Sun."

Goodman was on his feet in a flash, calling for the floor—also on a point of personal privilege—but Turnbull, acting now as majority floor leader, moved for adjournment.

As Senate President Goldstein (D-Calvert) called for the usual vote on the adjournment motion, he spotted Goodman and offered him the floor. But most of his colleagues had already cleared their desks before moving for the exits and Goodman announced he would "make my point of personal privilege tomorrow."

One observer said he had never witnessed such a verbal paddling of a senator in more than 20 years of work in the Statehouse.

Goodman's resolution urges the Legislative Council, between-session screening arm of the General Assembly, to set up several subcommittees to check on the financial operations of the various departments.

It says the subcommittees "would make the various spending agencies and departments more alert and responsive to the obligations for economy and dampen their inclination to 'budget jockeying'."

Goodman had noted that some legislators had complained of "payroll padding" by some agency heads. Dels. Staten (D-Balto County), Hanna (D-Wicomico) and Mandel (D-Balto 5th) had said the padding included "several mil-

Former Minister Here Will Head Easton District

SALISBURY, Md., Feb. 4 (AP) — The Rev. Dr. J. Leas Green, who has served Methodist churches in Maryland and Virginia for 40 years, will become superintendent of the church's Easton District in May.

He has been pastor of the Bethesda Methodist Church at Salisbury since 1934.

He began his career in the ministry at the Melvin Chapel in Cumberland in 1917. From there he went to Hurlock, Md., then to Mt. Olivet, Va. and next to Baltimore's Edmondson Ave. Methodist Church. He left there in 1934 for the Salisbury church.

Dr. Green and his wife go to Easton at the close of the conference year in May. The district is part of the Peninsula Conference.

lions" of dollars in funds requested for positions which remained unfilled in the departments.

The round of rebuke for Goodman came at the end of a brief session during which the senators approved, without discussion or debate, five bills.

Among four passed and sent to the House was a Legislative Council bill to outlaw "bait advertising," which features a product at bargain prices but turns out to be a mere "come-on."

Also sent to the House was a bill to make it possible for employees of plants closed for vacation or inventory to collect unemployment compensation without actively seeking new jobs.

The House held a fast session in which it passed half a dozen bills. One of the more significant spells out that the Department of Public Welfare will have general authority over schools for delinquent children. Another would officially change Armistice Day to Veterans' Day.

Business Men To Hear Talk

Gwynn Fletcher, city recreation director, will be the principal speaker at the February meeting of the South Cumberland Business Men's Association.

He will discuss the place of recreation in community life at the dinner meeting February 12 at 6:30 p. m. in Grace Community Hall, Second Street, according to Nelson W. Russler, chairman of the Entertainment committee.

Mr. Fletcher will replace Robert B. Kimble, chairman of the Employment Security Board, who will be unable to attend the meeting because of business reasons.

Mr. Kimble's talk on Employment Security has been rescheduled for the March 12 meeting of the association.

First Aid Class To Be Organized

A Red Cross first aid training course, primarily for those connected with the Civil Defense program but open to the general public, will be organized at 8 p. m. Wednesday at the Labor Temple, 125 South Liberty Street, according to William G. Barger, county Civil Defense director.

Mr. Barger said members will be registered for the class tomorrow night and again on Wednesday, February 13. After all the registrations are received it will be determined what night will be most satisfactory.

This beginning first aid course lasts for 18 hours, two hours a week for nine weeks. It is followed by an advanced class, lasting 12 hours, or two hours a week for six weeks. Medical training and rescue training courses will follow the advanced first aid class.

Pulp Group To Meet

W.Va. Turnpike Financing Headache For Legislature

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 4 (AP) — The Legislature expressed new concern today with the financial troubles of West Virginia's 88-mile turnpike.

A legislative investigation of the toll road's financing was proposed in a resolution in the Senate by President Bean (D-Hardy).

It would create a six-member committee of delegates and senators to study and report back to the Legislature and the governor by next Jan. 8.

That would be in time for the governor to include any recommendations in his call for the 30-day budget session of the Legislature in 1958.

The 1956 Legislature also ordered a study of the Charleston-Princeton turnpike. That investigation resulted in a report that extension of the present road was not feasible at this time.

Bean's new resolution expressed concern over the low market value of West Virginia Turnpike bonds, consisting of two issues with aggregate par value of 133 million dollars.

Among other things, the study committee would explore new avenues of re-financing the debt, and determine if traffic on the turnpike might be increased by the construction of more access roads.

Bean noted the turnpike com-

Cadillac

His Golden Anniversary at the Wheel!

In Texas, there is a gentleman who is currently driving out his fiftieth year at the wheel of a Cadillac car.

In New Jersey, there is another gentleman who has purchased every yearly model that Cadillac has produced over the past fifty-three years.

These are simply dramatic examples of one of the most remarkable truisms in all motordom: that once a man takes the wheel of a Cadillac, he usually remains at the wheel of a Cadillac!

To be sure, a motor car would have to offer many unique virtues in order to win so generous a place for itself in the affections of so many.

And, in the case of Cadillac, we think these virtues are self-evident.

There is, first of all, quality. No effort of design or craftsmanship is ever spared to make Cadillac the finest possible motor car.

There is beauty and luxury. The car's magnificent styling and interior coachwork have, over the years, brought Cadillac an inbred majesty and elegance that are entirely its own.

Then there is performance. In fact, Cadillac engineering has served as the industry's constant inspiration and taskmaster.

Finally, there is reputation. Never in automotive history has another motor car sustained such an abiding public conviction in its own goodness.

And, without question, all of these basic Cadillac ingredients have this year reaped their richest harvest.

So whether you've been at the wheel of a Cadillac for half a century . . . or have yet to spend your first hour in the "car of cars" . . . you should see and drive this newest of Cadillacs.

Need we say more?

Long-Range Money, Credit Problems

The Congressional Joint Economic Committee can expect little new information when William McC. Martin Jr., chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, appears before it today for questioning on the "Fed's" tight money policy. Martin has explained that policy many times before; there is little he can add. His most recent statements have reflected disappointment that Federal Reserve actions have not brought all of the results desired.

A more fruitful line of inquiry by the joint committee will cover operations of instalment credit institutions, savings and loan associations, mutual funds, insurance companies, and other financial organizations — whether those operations help or hinder what the Federal Reserve is trying to do and whether they should be subjected to some form of control by the central bank.

Since 1913, when the Federal Reserve System was set up, there have been vast changes in the country's money and credit mechanisms. Not only have new financial institutions grown up and new methods been developed, but the government itself has become a large lender and guarantor of private loans. The government is also a large borrower and greatly enlarged responsibilities have been imposed on the Washington money managers by the Employment Act of 1946.

Fundamental changes over the last 45 years have raised complex monetary problems not foreseen by the framers of the original Federal Reserve Act. Solutions to these long-range problems are of greater importance to smooth functioning of the economy than quick removal of the irritations, inconveniences, and hardships resulting from present shortages of lendable funds.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Courtesy And Politics

The conduct of the foreign policy of the United States is one of the functions of the President. To assist him, the President has the services of the State Department.

The City of New York has nothing to do with the conduct of the foreign policy of the United States, but there live about 8,000,000 people of many races, religions, creeds and national origins. In what is called the metropolitan area live about ten per cent of the population of the United States. Public opinion expresses itself swiftly and potently in this city.

The Mayor of New York is elected by its citizens. His association with the foreign policy is that the United Nations is situated in this city, resulting in a large number of automobiles bearing the license plate DPL with some numerals, clogging the traffic, parking in unauthorized areas, double even and triple.

Also, as many dignitaries from other countries choose New York as their port of entry, the Mayor is required to take time off to welcome these personalities, be they gentlemen, bandits, scoundrels, Communists, atheists or anything else.

The custom somehow came into existence for the Mayor to greet the visiting dignitary on the steps of our extraordinarily beautiful City Hall, a few speeches are made, the key to the city is handed to the alien, tugboats blow their whistles, fire-boats pour water in a cascade, a band plays. Then the Mayor and the foreigner get into an open automobile and drive at about two miles an hour from the City Hall to the Waldorf Astoria.

New Yorkers are supposed to cooperate with the State Department by standing on the sidewalk and cheering while the foreign dignitary bows to the right and to the left and the Mayor is supposed to smile all the time. From the skyscrapers, the citizens throw torn ticket-stubs and other rubbish out of the window until the streets are covered with tons of torn paper. It used to be customary to tear up a Manhattan telephone book.

A Manhattan telephone book weighs nearly five pounds and if such a book were thrown out of a window, say from the 25th story of a building, at a target in a slow-moving automobile, the target would be trucked off to a hospital instead of to a luncheon at the Waldorf Astoria. From that standpoint, it was fortunate that the Mayor cancelled the ticker-tape parade for King Saud, because many New Yorkers do not like kings much and Arabs not at all.

When this cavalcade arrives at the Waldorf Astoria, there is a formal luncheon. To it the Mayor has invited a few hundred distinguished citizens who eat a meal, stand to the national anthem of the visitor's country and our own, and listen to a round of speeches.

At least half of the Mayor's usual guests, if not all of them, could not have accepted an invitation to break bread with King Saud for all the reasons that the Mayor mentioned, namely, that King Saud practices slavery, that he is anti-Jewish, and that he is anti-Catholic.

The Mayor of this city, elected by its citizens, has to reflect the attitude of the citizens, not the shifting, changing, flexible policies of the State Department. Robert F. Wagner has been a satisfactory Mayor and if he runs for re-election, he will undoubtedly be re-elected, the disapproval of King Saud and President Eisenhower notwithstanding.

What no New Yorker can understand is why all these visiting dignitaries insist upon coming to New York and upon being entertained in this city. They can stop off in Boston or Philadelphia or Baltimore, or they can fly directly to Washington. Of course, the night life of New York can be exciting and it is true that many foreigners like to clutter the New York restaurants and night clubs and go to New York's theatres, the like of which are not available in other cities.

On the other hand, so many New Yorkers had kin whose blood is on the hands of some of these great men, that it would not at all be surprising if sooner or later, an incident occurred here which would be an embarrassment to all parties concerned. It proves how truly and fundamentally decent New Yorkers are that nothing of the kind has happened so far. If Tito came . . .

Not Sure It's Just A Nightmare

Clean Sweep In Cabinet Due Before Year's End

By Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

Two of the three most powerful Cabinet posts Treasury and Defense—will almost certainly be vacated this year, probably by mid-summer. Washington's great current mystery is whether the third and most important post — The Secretaryship of State — will also be vacated in the near future.

Both Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson and Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey have been behaving recently a little like employees who know they are leaving soon anyway. Departing employees don't have to worry about what the boss thinks — the boss in the case of a top public official being the President, the Congress, and the public all wrapped up in one.

Secretary Wilson certainly knew that his outburst about the National Guard would really stir up the animals. But he said it anyway, and he has stuck to his guns, because he thought he was right — and as far as the totally inadequate training of the Guard is concerned, he was certainly dead right.

As for Secretary Humphrey's outbursts about the budget, it was rather like a company's departing senior accountant suddenly informing the boss that the old firm was going bust. Things may not be quite that bad. But the Humphrey outburst was a rather sure sign that Federal spending will "go up and up and up" (to use Humphrey's phrase). For Humphrey is an immensely able man, and he has been absolutely determined to hold down Federal spending. As one of his colleagues remarked, "If George can't do it, nobody can do it."

Neither Humphrey nor Wilson have made any bones about their intense eagerness to get out of Washington for good, and soon. To be sure, the prospect of leaving a major Cabinet post, with all its immense power and prestige, tends to seem less pleasant as the moment of departure approaches. If the President of the United States really puts on the heat, moreover, it is difficult to resist him. But the betting is high that both Humphrey and Wilson will have bowed out in a few months.

After his cancer operation, the betting was also high that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles would leave at about the same time, making a clean sweep of the three top posts. The date usually mentioned was June 30. That date is still mentioned, but with less assurance than formerly.

For one thing, Secretary Dulles appears to have recovered magnificently, and he obviously loves the job he has dreamed of holding since he was a very young man. More important, for the first time in his career as Secretary, Dulles has been subjected to a really powerful attack from the Democrats.

The attack has rallied the indignant President to his side, just as President Truman rallied to the side of Dean Acheson when he became the chief Republican target. The very violence of the Republican attack tended to freeze Acheson in his post. The much less ferocious Democratic attack may well have the same effect in the case of Dulles.

If Dulles wants to stay on indefinitely, and if the President wants to keep him on indefinitely, the Democrats cannot possibly force him out, any more than the Republicans forced Acheson out. Yet there is a significant difference, quite apart from the question of health, between the situation of Acheson and that of Dulles.

Dulles took office determined to protect his rear, which Acheson had so signally failed to do. Acheson, when he became Secretary, sometimes seemed to go out of his way to alienate the key figures on Capitol Hill, and the press as well. Dulles has made herculean efforts to avoid doing so, which is one reason why, until recently, he has been almost immune to the kind of attack which is the usual lot of Secretaries of State.

But while protecting his rear, Secretary Dulles has failed, as it were, to protect his front. This country's major allies are, after all, the natural clients of a Secretary of State. And Dulles is now almost universally distrusted and disliked abroad, especially in Britain and France. This is not a carping criticism of Dulles. It is a simple statement of plain fact, which can be verified by any objective foreign observer.

A Secretary of State who is disliked and distrusted by the country's major allies cannot, in the nature of things, be an effective Secretary of State. This is why it is still a reasonable guess that, in time, Dulles will bow out, like Humphrey and Wilson, and there will thus be a clear sweep at the top level of the Eisenhower administration before the year is out.

Neither Humphrey nor Wilson have made any bones about their intense eagerness to get out of Washington for good, and soon. To be sure, the prospect of leaving a major Cabinet post, with all its immense power and prestige, tends to seem less pleasant as the moment of departure approaches. If the President of the United States really puts on the heat, moreover, it is difficult to resist him. But the betting is high that both Humphrey and Wilson will have bowed out in a few months.

After his cancer operation, the betting was also high that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles would leave at about the same time, making a clean sweep of the three top posts. The date usually mentioned was June 30. That date is still mentioned, but with less assurance than formerly.

For one thing, Secretary Dulles appears to have recovered magnificently, and he obviously loves the job he has dreamed of holding since he was a very young man. More important, for the first time in his career as Secretary, Dulles has been subjected to a really powerful attack from the Democrats.

The attack has rallied the indignant President to his side, just as President Truman rallied to the side of Dean Acheson when he became the chief Republican target. The very violence of the Republican attack tended to freeze Acheson in his post. The much less ferocious Democratic attack may well have the same effect in the case of Dulles.

If Dulles wants to stay on indefinitely, and if the President wants to keep him on indefinitely, the Democrats cannot possibly force him out, any more than the Republicans forced Acheson out. Yet there is a significant difference, quite apart from the question of health, between the situation of Acheson and that of Dulles.

Dulles took office determined to protect his rear, which Acheson had so signally failed to do. Acheson, when he became Secretary, sometimes seemed to go out of his way to alienate the key figures on Capitol Hill, and the press as well. Dulles has made herculean efforts to avoid doing so, which is one reason why, until recently, he has been almost immune to the kind of attack which is the usual lot of Secretaries of State.

But while protecting his rear, Secretary Dulles has failed, as it were, to protect his front. This country's major allies are, after all, the natural clients of a Secretary of State. And Dulles is now almost universally distrusted and disliked abroad, especially in Britain and France. This is not a carping criticism of Dulles. It is a simple statement of plain fact, which can be verified by any objective foreign observer.

A Secretary of State who is disliked and distrusted by the country's major allies cannot, in the nature of things, be an effective Secretary of State. This is why it is still a reasonable guess that, in time, Dulles will bow out, like Humphrey and Wilson, and there will thus be a clear sweep at the top level of the Eisenhower administration before the year is out.

The Boston Globe Drops Bombshell Into Rival's Case For TV Channel

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The Boston Globe dumped sand last week on the skids that had been greased for its competitor, the Boston Herald and Traveler, to win a television license worth $20 million. It filed a series of affidavits with the Federal Communications Commission that have the television-publishing world buzzing.

Prior to this the FCC, under pressure from GOP National Chairman Len Hall and Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks, ordered its staff to prepare the necessary papers for awarding the valuable TV permit to the Herald and Traveler.

The decision was so cut-and-dried that the commissioners didn't even bother to discuss it. The four who always jump when the GOP National Committee snaps its fingers—chairman George McConaughy, John Doerfer, Robert Lee, and Richard Mack—simply cast their majority vote for the Herald and Traveler. They not only disregarded the findings of the FCC's veteran chief examiner, Col. James Cunningham, but violated the FCC's own policy against concentrating news outlets into too few hands.

Startling Charges
The last minute before formal action, however, the rival Boston Globe made a vigorous protest. In a series of startling affidavits, the Globe charged that Herald-Traveler publisher Robert Choate had threatened to use the new TV station to drive the Globe out of business.

What Choate apparently meant was that the Herald-Traveler could offer "package advertising" in its newspapers and over its radio and TV stations at bargain rates. The Herald-Traveler already operates Boston's 50,000-watt radio station WHDH and offers combined radio time and newspaper space to advertisers at unpublished rates.

Pressured Banks

In its petition to the FCC, the Globe protested that "if the Herald-Traveler should be awarded a license to operate television channel 5, due to the policy of the Herald-Traveler, the power of the Herald-Traveler to promote its own business to obtain additional circulation and to obtain advertising will be greatly increased so that (the Globe) could compete against it only with the greatest of difficulty."

The Globe is also building a new printing plant, which required financing from the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company and the Second Bank-Street Trust Company. Davis Taylor charged in his affidavit: "After the insurance company and the bank informed the Globe that they would furnish such financing, but before they had committed themselves other than by verbal commitment, Mr. Choate visited the officers of the bank and attempted to upset the loans."

It will be interesting to see whether the Globe, an independent paper, can persuade the FCC not to award the TV permit to the pro-Republican Herald-Traveler.

Chief Examiner Cunningham, judging the case strictly on its merits, ruled in favor of awarding the license to the Greater Boston Television Corp. But Choate pulled political strings through Hall, Weeks, and to a lesser extent, Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R., Mass.). Weeks even arranged appointments for Choate at the FCC.

"Let Post Die"

As a result, the FCC overruled its chief examiner in December without so much as discussing the controversial case. Now that the political pressure has been exposed, it remains to be seen whether the FCC will reverse itself before issuing a formal and final decision.

Note No. 1—John Taylor, in his affidavit, told of mentioning the Boston Post in a conversation with Choate. The Herald-Traveler publisher is quoted as replying: "Oh, to hell with the Post. Let it die on the vine." The Post has now gone out of business.

Note No. 2—The FCC's preliminary decision in favor of the Herald-Traveler leaked out and caused a sudden jump in Herald-Traveler stock. The FCC is doing nothing about this leak, though the Civil Aeronautics Board is now investigating a similar leak that caused speculating in Northeast Airlines stock.

Freshmen Grumble

Freshmen Republican Senators are grumbling over the way they were shunted off to minor committees. Every GOP newcomer, for example, ended up on the committee that administers local District of Columbia affairs.

For their second assignments, they drew either the Post Office or Rules Committee — the next two in order of least importance. Even New Jersey's Sen. Clifford Case, who has served two years in the Senate, is still stuck on the District and Post Office Committees.

In contrast, every Democratic freshman was assigned to at least one major committee. Three newcomers—Blakeley of Texas, Carroll of Colorado, and Lausche of Ohio—drew two major assignments.

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson has dictated the policy of giving freshmen a break. New Republicans are muttering openly that they wish the "Lyndon Johnson rule" would be applied on the GOP side.

House Group Checks Needs At Shepherd

College Requests Dormitory, Library

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 4.—A House Finance subcommittee returned to Charleston today from a weekend visit to the Eastern Panhandle determined to do something constructive for two institutions in that area.

President Oliver S. Ikenberry of Shepherd College told the subcommittee headed by Del. Booth (D-Fayette) that his institution can borrow $1,200,000 from a federal agency if the Legislature approves.

The money, Dr. Ikenberry said, would be used for a new dormitory and library.

Members of the touring subcommittee indicated their wholehearted interest also in problems at the West Virginia Schools for the Deaf and Blind at Romney.

The superintendent there, Hugo F. Schnhoff, told the group his pressing need was higher teacher salaries and eight instruction rooms equipped with hearing aids.

Schnhoff asked that cuts in the schools' budget be restored. "Nobody wants to cut on institutions of this type," Booth commented after hearing Schnhoff's outline of needs.

At Shepherd, the problem is living quarters for the students. Of 700 enrolled, more than 500 cannot live on the campus and must commute.

Each year, Ikenberry said, Shepherd must reject from 75 to 100 applications for space in the girls' dormitory.

Approval for the federal loans is needed by the Legislature, it was explained, because the debt would be repaid from student fees which normally go into the state's general revenue fund.

Grant Co. Organizing Heart Drive

PETERSBURG — Mrs. May King will be chairman of the 1957 Heart Fund campaign in Grant County for the third consecutive year. Joe Burdette, state chairman of the West Virginia Heart Association, announces.

The Grant County Heart Association, which is affiliated with the American Heart Association, will conduct its annual fund-raising drive through February 28. The campaign will reach a peak on Heart Sunday, February 24, with a door-to-door collection conducted by local volunteers.

The purpose of the annual drive, Mrs. King declared in accepting the appointment, is to support the association's research, lay and professional education and community service programs.

Frostburg Library Gets Bible Atlas

FROSTBURG — The Frostburg Public Library received a gift volume this week which will be a valuable addition to their religious book shelf. Miss Mary Hanson presented the library with a copy of the Rand-McNally Bible Atlas, in memory of her mother, Mrs. Pearl Hanson.

The volume, compiled by Dr. Emil G. Kraeling, Ph. D. gives a contemporary picture of Bible geography and history. It is replete with maps, colored illustrations and photographs, which give the Bible student a vivid and interesting picture of the ancient world as it was in the days of the patriarchs and up to the time of Paul.

Mt. Savage Airman Aboard Yorktown

MT. SAVAGE — Ronald R. Blank, aviation boatwain's mate airman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl R. Blank of RFD 1, Mt. Savage, and husband of the former Miss Mary A. McKenzie of Mt. Savage, is scheduled to leave Alameda, Calif., February 1 aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Yorktown for the Western Pacific.

The Yorktown has been at Alameda since November 17. Before then she was engaged in extensive operations in the Hawaiian area.

Ross Crowe's Herd Heads County Milk Production

OAKLAND — Ross Crowe, whose 26 Holstein and Guernsey cows averaged 892 pounds of milk and 35.3 pounds of fat, had the top herd in Garrett County's Dairy Herd Improvement Association No. 2 during the month of December.

Baity Ridder was second high with 15 Holstein and Guernsey cows producing 886 pounds of milk and 35.4 pounds of fat. In third place was the herd of William Wildensen, whose 21 registered Holstein and Guernsey cows produced 636 pounds of milk and 29.6 pounds of fat. C. W. Wagner Jr., with 21 Holstein cows, was fourth with 700 pounds of milk and 26.9 pounds of fat. Walter Beckman ranked fifth with 16 Holstein and Guernsey

JACKIE SCARCELLI

St. Peter's High TopHomemaker Is Selected

WESTERNPORT — Miss Jackie Kaye Scarcelli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Scarcelli, 410 Maryland Avenue, was named Home-maker of Tomorrow at St. Peter's High School.

Rev. Linus Robinson, pastor of St. Peter's Catholic Church, presented the Betty Crocker award to Miss Scarcelli who received the highest score in the written examination on homemaking, knowledge and attitude.

Her examination paper has been entered in competition to name the state candidate for the title of "All American Homemaker of Tomorrow," and will also be considered for the runnerup award in Maryland.

Legion Post And Auxiliary Seek Members

FROSTBURG — A joint meeting of members of the American Legion, Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion Auxiliary, was held recently in the legion home with Commander George Layman and President Angela Jackson presiding.

Membership was the important topic of discussion and it was stated that members of the Legion should influence the women of their families to become members of the Auxiliary. Auxiliary members are needed, the officers said, to meet their membership quota and it is depending on the Legion members to help meet that quota. Plans were made to hold more joint meetings and future activities for both groups. The officers also pointed out that in order to have a successful Legion the full support of an auxiliary is needed.

Commander Layman and President Jackson pledged full support of their units. Plans were also made to hold a ham supper, February 28 in the Legion home for the public, serving from 5 to 7 p. m. This affair is to be jointly sponsored by the legion and the auxiliary. Tickets may be purchased from members of both organizations.

Eckhart Residents Report Vandalism

ECKHART—The Eckhart Street Lighting Association has asked the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to use its influence in having vandalism in that community stopped.

William H. Lemmert, president of the board, said officials of the association reported to him that youths have knocked out nine street lights with BB gun pellets in the past few days. In addition, they have broken stained glass windows in the Methodist Church and windows of the Eckhart Elementary School.

The sheriff's office will be notified and the constable for that section will be asked to check into the matter.

Meeting Called

FROSTBURG — The regular monthly meeting of the teachers and officers of Zion Reformed Church will be held in the Sunday School room Friday at 7:30 p. m. All teachers and officers are asked to make a special effort to be present.

Gov. Underwood Fills Two More State Vacancies

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 4.—Gov. Underwood filled two more vacancies in major state agencies today with the appointment of a chairman and minority member of the State Liquor Control Commission.

He called in a 47-year-old lawyer and prominent American Legionnaire, E. Gaujot Bias of Legionnaire, to head up the liquor agency. As the minority member of the commission he named Col. Ben Venable of Charleston, a Democrat who worked for the election of Republicans Eisenhower, Revercomb and Underwood in last November's election.

Bias, a former state commander of the American Legion, succeeds Frank B. King of Morgantown, who was named chairman by former Gov. Marland in June of 1955 and served until his recent resignation.

Those who went January 16 included Charles Allen Taylor, Mt. Lake Park; Roy Garland Jenkins, Accident; Melvin H. Pritts, Swanton; Darius Henry Georg, Accident; and Parker A. Bell, Mt. Lake Park.

Eight other young men of the community enlisted in the United States Navy during the past two weeks.

They are John Ruff, Fred Colaw, John Luke, George Lee, William Sanders, Paul Brohawn, William Moore and Robert Montgomery.

They will be sent to the Naval Training Station at Bainbridge this month for their boot training.

WCS Launches Penny Campaign

ELLERSLIE — The Womens Society of World Service of the Evangelical United Brethren Church met in the church basement Friday evening. Mrs. Edna Lowery read the responsive reading and Mrs. Nellie Close gave the prayer. Plans were made for the members to save their pennies during the month of February and a dinner will be given this month. The money will go to the Kentucky Mountain Mission. Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Miller and Ambrose Miller.

Maryland Miss Crowned Queen At Ski Carnival

DAVIS — Lack of snow curtailed the third annual Winter Carnival here over the weekend but ceremonial events other than skiing were held.

Miss Mary Lou Prehn, of Forestville, Md., who was named queen of the carnival by the Ski Club of Washington, which sponsored the program with the Upper Monongahela Valley Citizens' Association, was crowned at the "Snowball Dance" Saturday night at Davis High School.

Gov. Cecil Underwood had been scheduled to crown the queen but he was called to southern West Virginia where floods devastated a large area.

Carl Johnson, director of the West Virginia Conservation Commission, acted on behalf of the governor in crowning Miss Prehn.

Friday evening films of the winter Olympics held at Cortina, Italy, were shown and an old-fashioned square dance held. A parade was held Saturday morning.

At the last meeting, Ralph Rader Jr., was elected senior patrol leader and Floyd Wolfe, junior leader.

The troop meets Thursday of each week in the school. Ralph Rader Sr., is scoutmaster.

Allegany-Beall, Valley-Mt. Savage Head Cage Card

Tilts Tonight May Decide Class Champs

Beall, Mt. Savage Could Upset Dope In Games At Home

Two of the most important games of the basketball season in Allegany county are on tap for tonight.

Allegany meets Beall at Frostburg in one of the headliners while Valley's Black Knights invade Mt. Savage to tackle John Thomas' Indians in the other contest.

The Class A and B races could very well be decided in these games, that's if Allegany and Valley win, but if Beall and Mt. Savage triumph the races will be tied up to await later developments.

Here's how the races now stand:

Class A Schools
	W.	L.	Pct.
Allegany	2	0	1.000
Beall	1	1	.500
Fort Hill	0	2	.000

Class B Schools
	W.	L.	Pct.
Valley	2	0	1.000
Mt. Savage	1	1	.500
Bruce	0	2	.000

Allegany's loss at Mt. Savage last Friday, 63-59, the fact that the Campers had their full edge in Beall here, 65-64, and "Ebbie" Finzel's Mountaineers won at Mt. Savage by the score of 64-59 tend to make the Frostburg team's chances look good in tonight's game. And remember, Beall recently clobbered Piedmont, leader of the P.V.C. by 32 points at Frostburg after winning the series opener at Piedmont by 30 tallies.

Valley and Allegany are now knotted for first place in the W. M. I. League with 5-1 records. A victory for Valley and a loss for the Campers would give the Knights the undisputed lead with only three games left to play.

Needs Win To Qualify
Valley could qualify for the Maryland District No. 1 Class B tourney at Hagerstown next month by sweeping its series from Mt. Savage tonight. Coach John Meyers' quint won the first game at Coney by the score of 69-52 and Mt. Savage will be shooting both barrels to stay in the running tonight.

The third W.M.I. game of the evening brings together Bruce and Fort Hill at Fort Hill. Both schools have 1-5 records and the loser in tonight's game gains sole possession of the cellar berth.

Beall will be gunning for its fifth consecutive win tonight. The Mountaineers own an overall record of 12-2. The Campers are 13-2.

LaSalle's Explorers return to the basketball wars tonight, meeting the scrappy Ridgeley High Blackhawks in Ridgeley. LaSalle holds a 44-39 decision over Ridgeley but the Hawks have tripped Piedmont and loom mighty tough right now. Coach Tom O'Connor's quint is playing .500 ball with eight wins and eight losses. LaSalle is 6-8 to date.

Elks Seek 11 In Row
Coach Paul Kalbaugh's Elk Garden cagers will be striving to extend their winning streak to eleven games when they collide with Southern High. The Elks whipped Oakland by the score of 76-63 in their initial P.V.C. encounter.

Romney plays at Capon Bridge, Mathias at Paw Paw and Wardensville at Moorefield in other conference games.

Other Tuesday night contests include Berkeley Springs at Shepherdstown, Franklin's Panthers at Greencreek, Stonycreek High of Shanksville, Pa., at Hyndman High and Bedford High's Bisons at Adams Township.

Homecoming's high flying Frederick Cadets invade the Hub City tonight to play South Hagerstown High School. Frederick's 11 wins in 12 starts include a 57-53 verdict over the Rebels of South Hagerstown.
Potomac State College of Keyser (3-12) visits Altoona, Pa., to battle it out with Altoona Undergraduate Center. Potomac beat the Pennsylvanians on December 19 by the score of 105-72. State has lost 12 of 16 games.

Cutlip And Benson Top Hot Rod Pinmen

Herlie Cutlip and Chester Benson are tied for high average in the Hot Rod Mixed Bowling League with 132.6 each while Ethel Layton paces the women with 111.7.

The Dodgers scored the only shutout this week, defeating the Mercuries, 3-0. The first place Dodgers downed the Plymouths and the DeSotos bowed to the Chevrolts by 2-1 scores.

High scorers: Dodgers—Donald Layton 181-413. Mercuries—John Lindeman 154-383. Ford—Frank Drake 157-389. Plymouths—Frances Myers 122. Chester Benson 121-347. Chevrolts—Harlie Cutlip 186-497. DeSotos—Paul Rudolph 153-406. Standings:

Thompson Scores 28 For Orr's

Paces Loop Leaders To 54-33 Victory

Paul "Bubbles" Thompson, of Midland, who won the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club plaque Sunday for his stellar performance on the gridiron with George Washington University last year, turned in a 28-point performance last night to lead Orr's Confectionery to a 54-33 triumph over the A. & P. Packers in a Mountain City Basketball League game at Frostburg State Teachers College new gym.

The victory enabled Orr's Confectionery of Midland to increase its lead to one full game over the runner-up 'Coney Independents.

"Pug" Turner was the A. & P.'s top scorer with 13 markers. Frostburg's Dukes trimmed Skyview Inn, 35-28, and Harris Restaurant defeated the V.F.W., 38-24, in other league games last night.

Dale Lavin paced the Dukes with 12 points and John Conley had eight for Skyview Inn. "Scotchey" Adams and Nick Harris with 18 and 10 tallies sparked Harris' scoring. Broadwater Ferguson and Kemp collected six points each for the Vets.

The standings:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.

Senators May Trade Players

Deal With Chisox Reported On Fire

CHICAGO, Feb. 4. (INS)—Vice President Chuck Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox reported today that the club "is very close" to completing a deal with the Washington Senators.

Comiskey said that after talking with Cal Griffith of the Senators on the telephone, he is confident a deal can be made.

Comiskey said that Griffith asked for two days to think it over. The Sox are seeking a third baseman, outfielder and a left-handed hitting catcher. While Comiskey is prohibited from mentioning specific names, it is no secret that the Sox are seeking Eddie Yost, a third baseman, Roy Sievers, who can play left field or first base, and either Lou Berberet, or Clint Courtney for the catching chores.

Comiskey also reported that he was in telephone contact with Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox and John McHale of Detroit, but he said "the Washington transaction would have far greater magnitude."

As for players Washington might want, Comiskey said he submitted a list "containing the names of several young players whom the Senators could use."

Charles Town Asks Extension Of Race Meet
CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Feb. 4 (AP)—A group of local horsemen met with Albert J. Boyle, president of the Charles Town Turf Club today to request an extension of the present meeting.

Boyle, later said he would present their request to the newly appointed West Virginia Racing Commission.

The present meeting ends Feb. 16, conflicting with the Bowie winter meeting for five days. There was no indication of how long an extension would be sought.

Hart Scores TKO In St. Nick Bout
NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (AP)—Sugar Hart, 20-year-old welterweight from Philadelphia, won his 11th straight tonight when Referee Harry Ebbs stopped his fight with Barry Allison of Springfield, Mass. to give Hart a technical knockout in 22 seconds of the seventh round.

Hart weighed 146½, Allison 146¾.

The crowd of 2,176 at St. Nicholas Arena booed the referee's action for several minutes and littered the ring with paper cups and old newspapers.

Allison never went down although he was wobbled at the end of the sixth.

Asked why he had stopped the fight without a knockdown, Ebbs said "the kid was in bad shape, taking quite a beating."

Fans stormed into the ring for a better vantage point of a fight that broke out between two excited customers after the fighters and officials left the ring.

All three officials had Hart way out front. Ebbs had it 6-0 and Judges Bert Grant and Al Singer scored it 5-1.

Pro Football Has Language All Its Own

Green Bay Packers Evaluate Collegians

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 4 (AP)—Pro football has a salty language all its own when it comes to evaluating college players for the National Football League draft.

Such terms as "Soft nose", "Scatterbrain", "Beautiful body, soul of a mouse", "Hungry and poor", and "Real hard nose" were sprinkled through a bulky 45-page player dossier the Green Bay Packers compiled and took with them to the draft meetings in Philadelphia last week.

The "manuscript" listed 539 players by positions, with notations after most of the names. Scouts, former Packers, coaches and friends of the club all had a hand in the final product.

Those contacted for evaluations didn't always agree.

One player "didn't show enough to warrant being a pro prospect" in the eyes of one scout while another said of him "you can use this boy, I believe."

Descriptions ran the gamut from "has a tendency to be lazy" and "if he would get over being a baby he would be okay," to "is mean, loves contact" and "tough as nails."

The Packers were advised to steer clear of one prospect because "he's not hungry enough" and another because "he's not mean enough" and still another because "he's nothing but a big, slow slob."

The Giant California Condor do not breed until they are four or five years old. Normally they do not nest more often than every other year, probably because a young condor must be fed and cared for by its parents until it is more than one year old.

Feel That Unions Do Not Belong In Competitive Sports

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 4 (AP)—The big question professional football fans are asking today is why the National Football League refused to recognize the players' association.

The answer is simple. The owners don't believe the association has the strength to back up its convictions.

Commissioner Bert Bell sounded the tone of owner thinking when he said, "Why, the Bears don't belong to the thing. The Steelers didn't even send a representative to the meeting in New York. Out in California they're divided in opinion. A number of the Eagles' ball players are against it."

These statements echoed through the Bellevue Stratford Hotel as owner after owner made similar comments. They weren't going to recognize something they didn't even think existed. And they didn't.

There were other reasons, among them the firm belief of George Preston Marshall, owner of the Redskins, and others, that associations or unions don't belong in competitive sports. There was the admitted fact that given a foothold, the association demands in future years might cause bitter relations and cost the league big money.

Some owners who have other business interests and deal with unions and associations, envisioned the day when their players might march up and down outside a ball park with signs reading: "NFL unfair to organized football players."

Vote Unanimous
Bell contends that there were no leaders in the move to defeat the association. Six clubs, however, Philadelphia, Detroit, New York, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and the Chicago Cardinals declared before the meeting they were unopposed to the association. Either some of them changed their minds or they masked true sentiments in the pre-meeting unofficial poll conducted by reporters. Bell said the vote rejecting the association was unanimous.

The expressions of surprise by representatives of the association when the league decision was made known indicated another angle of the situation. Apparently they had been lulled into a sense of false confidence somewhere along the line.

Certainly, all was sweetness and light when Commissioner Bell and the association's representatives, players Kyle Rote, Norman Van Brocklin and their counsel Creighton Miller made their announcement last Wednesday on the player proposals. Bell complimented Miller as the best lawyer the group could have obtained because he understood football. He also praised the players for their dignified presentation.

Fight Has Begun
Rote, Van Brocklin, Miller and other players have indicated by their reaction that the fight has just begun. They plan another meeting with Bell. The commissioner says he'll listen, but he leaves no doubt that the association's first job is to prove there is such an organization—with names and numbers of all the players.

Mountaineers Beat VMI Keydets, 89-57

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Feb. 4 (AP)—Hot Rod Hundley shot behind his back, dribbled lying on the floor and scored 34 points in West Virginia's easy 89-57 Southern Conference basketball victory over Virginia Military tonight.

The Hot Rod, who never starts his fancy clowning until his team is safely ahead, began cutting up well before the end of the first half.

The highlight of the game, as far as the record crowd of 2,800 in Bluefield Auditorium was concerned, was Hundley's behind-the-back field goal from 15 feet out, with 36 seconds left in the game.

The Hot Rod missed his first two tries, but made both rebounds for the successful third attempt.

Hundley, who scored 20 of his points in the first half, was second in rebounds, with 10, to teammate Lloyd Sharrar's 11. No one else in the game came close in scoring. For VMI, Dave Goode's 34 points were high, and Bill Coupland was second with 12. WVU's Bob Smith was the only other player in double figures, with 10.

The victory was the eighth straight for WVU, and the eighth without a loss in the Southern Conference this season. Overall the Mountaineers are 16-3.

For VMI, the loss was its 14th as compared to four victories. The Keydets were knocked into a tie with last place Davidson in the conference; each stands 1-6.

Kentucky Grabs Third Place In Basketball Poll

Tarheels Hold Lead Despite Kansas Gain

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

It's North Carolina all the way again in the weekly college basketball ratings, but Kansas refuses to wilt. Still, that is.

Due largely to Wilt Chamberlain's invaluable contributions, Kansas' victory over Iowa State last week made a stronger impression on the voters than North Carolina's easy decision over little Western Carolina. It wasn't enough to shake Carolina's hold on first place in the Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters, but the Jayhawks picked up enough points to make the race closer.

Kansas Gains

Out of 92 voting, 53 listed North Carolina's Tarheels on top and 22 favored Kansas. That was a gain in firsts for Kansas and a loss for Carolina, but both recorded higher point totals than last week, due to a heavier vote.

On the basis of 10 points for each first place vote, 9 for second, etc., Carolina tallied 871 and Kansas 773.

Kentucky, winning three games in easy fashion, inherited third place from Louisville. Southern Methodist, again trading positions with UCLA in its private race, jumped from sixth to fourth while the Uclans held fifth.

Louisville Slips

Louisville slid to sixth after an 81-78 loss to little Memphis State, which came from nowhere to a spot in the middle of the second tier as a result. Seattle, Bradley, Iowa State and Wake Forest completed the first ten.

Illinois, thumped by unheralded Purdue, tumbled from seventh to 15th while Wake Forest advanced to 10th on the strength of three Atlantic Coast Conference victories. Seattle and Bradley, both idle last week, each moved up two places.

The top teams with first place votes in parentheses:

1. North Carolina (53)	871
2. Kansas (22)	773
3. Kentucky (2)	539
4. Southern Methodist (1)	465
5. UCLA (2)	372
6. Louisville (1)	355
7. Seattle (1)	279
8. Bradley (1)	206

Birdie High On Ecker

CINCINNATI (AP)—"One of our bright hopes for the future is Tom Acker," says Cincinnati Redleg manager Birdie Tebbetts.

The 26-year-old 6-foot-right hander had a 4-3 record while appearing in 29 games for the third place Redlegs last season.

In 20 of his 22 relief appearances he blanked the opposition. In 45 innings of relief, the native of Fair Lawn, N. J., gave only four earned runs, walked 18 and struck out 34. His earned run record in relief was 0.80.

Graziano Sued By Apostoli, Charges Book Is Incorrect

Says Fred Loser In Garden Prelim

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 4 (AP)—One former world's middleweight boxing champion sued another today over the book "Somebody Up There Likes Me."

Fred Apostoli filed the $15,000 damage action in Federal District Court against Rocky Graziano, claiming the book contained false and defamatory statements. Apostoli was champion in 1939, Graziano in 1947-48.

The suit alleged that the book said Graziano won a decision in a four-round preliminary at Madison Square Garden, New York, after chasing Apostoli around the ring most of the time. Apostoli, now a San Francisco restaurateur said he never fought Graziano.

Mountain Top downed LaVale and Fort Hill upset Hercules in smallbore rifle contests held by the Western Maryland League Sunday afternoon at the Oakland and Bowman's Addition ranges.

Rowlesburg's Bob Cain paced rampaging Mountain Toppers as they rolled over LaVale, 1146 to 1100, for their tenth win of the season. LaVale's best was 281 markers turned in by Leo Ford.

The match was on a home range basis with the winners in action at Oakland and the losers competing at Bowman's Addition.

Locally, Fort Hill gunners surprised Hercules, 1124 to 1118, and copped their first victory against this team in four tries. Norm

White's 287 paced the successful 162 assault. The losers were topped by Jim Spitznogle's score of 294 107 points which was high tally for the meet and also best total for the prone-neel-stand series.

Bob Devaney Named Coach At Wyoming

Former MSC Mentor To Sign 3-Year Pact

LARAMIE, Wyo., Feb. 4 (AP)—Robert S. Devaney, 41, end coach at Michigan State College, today was named head football coach at the University of Wyoming.

Devaney arrived in Laramie by train today to meet the university trustees and sign a 3-year contract. He is expected to receive around $10,500 a year.

Devaney succeeds Phil Dickens who accepted a 4-year contract at the University of Indiana several days ago.

The entire Wyoming coaching staff followed Dickens to Indiana. However, Devaney said he had the nucleus of a staff "pretty much in line."

Five assistant coaches will be named, at least one of whom will be a Wyoming graduate and Wyoming high school coach.

Devaney has been at Michigan State four years. Prior to going to Michigan State, he had 14 years coaching in Michigan high schools, seven years at Alpena, one at Saginaw, four at Keego Harbor and two at Big Beaver High School in Birmingham, Mich.

University officials said Devaney's contract has a withholding clause, under which a portion of his salary is withheld each month pending completion of the three year contract. Wyoming's last two coaches—Bowden Wyatt and Dickens—were plucked off the Laramie camps in the middle of a long-term contract.

The fur seal goes ashore only once a year, on the Pribilof Islands in the Bering Sea. The rest of the time he never sees land or any fresh water except rain.

Syndicate May Pay $800,000 For Needles

Florida Breeders Get Chance To Buy

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 4 (AP)—Needles, the champion 3-year-old race horse of 1956, will be sold by his owners, Bonnie Heath and Jack Dudley, before the end of this week, for $800,000.

Florida breeders will be given the first chance to buy the powerful bay colt whose victories in such races as the Kentucky Derby, Belmont, Flamingo and Florida Derby returned his owners $570,655 in earnings on a $20,000 investment.

If the Floridians fail to get the money quickly to buy Needles on a syndicated basis, the horse will go to Kentucky.

Hugh Fontaine, trainer of the famous Florida-bred racer, told Sports Editor Morris McEmore of the Miami Daily News of plans to sell him.

"He will be syndicated on a basis of 32 shares at $25,000 each—a total of $800,000, Fontaine said. The offer was made first to members of the Florida Breeders' Assn.

The price for Needles compares with a world record of $1,250,000 paid in 1955 for Nashua, the great Belair Stud racer. The William Woodward estate sold Nashua to a syndicate headed by Leslie Combs III of Lexington, with 35 shares going at $39,400 each.

Orioles Sign Skinny Brown

BALTIMORE, Feb. 4 (AP)—Hal (Skinny) Brown, a right-hander who seems to work best after dark, signed his 1957 contract with the Baltimore Orioles, the American League Club announced today.

He was assigned largely to bullpen duty during the first half of the '56 campaign but eventually won a regular starting assignment and finished with a 9 and 7 record. Six of his nine victories were in night games.

The 33-year-old 6-1 Brown was the 25th Oriole to join up for the 1957 campaign.

Slot Machine Will Dispense Race Tickets

Takes Paper Money, Eliminates Sellers

BALTIMORE, Feb. 4 (AP)—A Baltimore firm says it, too, is developing a slot machine for dispensing pari-mutuel tickets at race tracks.

The machines would permit tracks to dispense with sellers, developers say.

The American Totalisator Co. said its machine is being designed to take paper money. It would scan a bill, decide if it were good and then open up and the bettor would get his ticket.

The Pari-Mutuel Equipment Corp. announced in New York last week it will soon be ready to install automatic push-button machines for printing, registering and issuing pari-mutuel tickets.

Under its system a bettor buys a book of tickets. He'd insert one into a machine, press his horse's number and back would come his ticket perforated with the number selected.

Under the Baltimore firm's system the booklets would be eliminated. The track patron would put a bill on a tray and slide it into the vending machine. The machine would take bills from $1 to $100.

The electric eye would scan a bill and if it were good the machine would open and the bettor would punch his ticket on his selection.

The American Totalisator Co. said it has purchased the patent rights of an invention known as an electronic scanner and believes it can come up with a ticket machine which will run on paper money instead of coins.

The firm said it may be able to turn out a machine that will cost tracks less than $5 a day. Some big tracks pay sellers a minimum of $27 a day. In Maryland mutuel clerks get $12 a day.

New Giants Star

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, D. R. (AP)—Two members of the New York Giant 1957 roster are setting the Dominican League on fire. Third baseman Ossie Virgil, rookie from Minneapolis of the American Assn. had a .333 batting average for Escogido's first 35 games while pitcher Pete Burnside showed a 9-5 record for 107 innings.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 4 (INS) — I can tell you that it's practically set for Jimmy Stewart to star in "The FBI Story" by Don Whitehead for which J. Edgar Hoover wrote the foreword. Jimmy is tired after a long grind with "The Spirit of St. Louis" and he's taking a rest before he does anything else, but he is so good as Lindbergh that Jack Warner is making him the "FBI" offer.

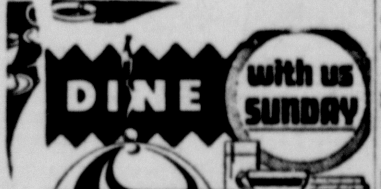

"The FBI Story" is a book I thoroughly enjoyed. I used to see J. Edgar Hoover at La Jolla each summer when he went into Scripps Clinic for check-ups and we were spending some time at Del Mar. I was one of the first to receive an advance copy of this book, with a very nice personal inscription by Edgar.

Cornel Borchers, who was being groomed for big things at U.I. before she returned to her native Germany to marry Anton Schildkopf and remained there to make a picture with him, returns to Hollywood February 15. She'll co-star with George Nader in "Alone Together."

Al Daff, U.I. executive, had a great deal to do with Cornel's decision to try American films again. On his recent trip to Europe and Germany, Al saw her and her husband several times and asked Cornel if she would accept another Hollywood movie if it was offered to her. He offered, she accepted, and will be on her way soon to report to Producer Robert Arthur.

I don't believe Kirk Douglas will leave for Munich until after the Academy Awards. United Artists has set March for production of "Paths of Glory," in which he will be starred. Kirk will be in Germany 15 weeks while he is filming the James Harris-Stanley Kubrick story. Anne and the baby will go with him.

Richard Anderson gets a trip to Germany, too. He has been signed for the second name lead.

Girl Is Committed To Baltimore School

A 15-year-old local girl was committed to the House of the Good Shepherd, Baltimore, at a hearing Friday before Juvenile Court Magistrate Morris Baron.

The magistrate said the girl was sent to the school for training and supervision since she did not want to go back to the couple who adopted her at the age of 9 after her parents died.

He said the girl lived happily with the family, who adopted her and gave her all the advantages of a home, until she was 12. Last September, he said, the girl decided to go to live with her half-sister in Indiana but became dissatisfied there last month and ran away.

She was picked up by authorities of that state and returned here. Her parents, he said, were asked to contribute $25 a month for the girl's support.

Part Of Evidence In Case Is Heard

Chief Judge George Henderson heard most of the evidence in a $10,000 damage suit Friday in Allegany County Circuit Court but postponed the conclusion of the trial until one of the defendants, who is ill, can testify.

Wesley D. Rogers, for his own use and the use of the Industrial Insurance Company, brought the $10,000 suit against Lester L. Wilkinson, LaVale, and Casper A. Shook, 923 Maryland Avenue, trading as the Wilkinson and Shook Oil Company, and Ronald Victor Shook, 401 East Laing Avenue.

Judge Henderson heard all the testimony except from Ronald Victor Shook, who is hospitalized. Rogers was driving west on U. S. Route 40 near Belle Grove in the eastern end of the county. His car was struck and virtually demolished October 15, 1955, when struck by a Wilkinson and Shook truck driven east on Route 40 by Ronald Victor Shook. The equitable plaintiff paid Rogers $365.20 for damage to his car.

Attorney William R. Carscaden represented the plaintiff and Attorney Horace P. Whitworth Jr. the defendant.

Three Enlisted By Recruiter

Three men enlisted in the Army at the local recruiting station, according to Master Sgt. W. C. Hartley, recruiter.

James F. Dobbins, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carson Dobbins, 63 G Street, Keyser, signed up for the Airborne troops. A student at Potomac State College, the youth is a former member of the Elyria (Ohio) Jumping Club and is a member of the National Paratroopers and Riggers Association. He was sent to Fort Jackson, S. C., for basic training.

Cpl. Arnold W. Walker, Spring Gap, re-enlisted for three years unassigned. He was sent to Fort Jackson for assignment.

Elmer Lee Loar Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lee Loar Sr., RD 1, Frostburg, enlisted for three years and was sent to Fort Jackson for basic training.

CONSTIPATED?

new laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks without gag, bloat or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrift" colon. A "thrift" colon is one that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

TO REGAIN NORMAL REGULARITY two things are necessary. First, the dry, shrunken contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be re-moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to s-t-r-e-t-c-h stimulate it and so, excite its muscles to action; to a normal urge to purge.

AND, OF ALL LAXATIVES, only COLONOID, the amazing new laxative discovery possesses COLONOID's great moisturizing capacity plus COLONOID's stretch-stimulating bulk that

Motorist Sentenced To Six Months Term

A local man was sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction yesterday after being found guilty of three motor vehicle violations.

Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason sentenced the man, Arnold A. Heier, after finding him guilty of driving while under the influence of liquor or drugs, driving on a revoked license and driving without license plates.

Magistrate Mason noted that the influence charge was the man's second conviction.

He was apprehended Saturday night by Officer Clarence Valentine.

Market Trend Uncertain As Prices Back And Fill

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (AP)—Stock market prices backed and filled in a bumpy stock market today. There was little group action to distinguish this slow day. Selected issues moved to the plus or minus side almost at random.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 20 cents to $175.90 with the industrials down 60 cents, the rails unchanged and the utilities up 20 cents.

Volume totaled 1,750,000 shares compared with 1,680,000 on Friday, continuing the sub-average trading pace of last week.

The most active stock was General Dynamics, up 3/4 at 59 3/4 on 33,200 shares. Second was Northrop Aircraft, up 3/4 at 28 on 31,400 shares. Third was General Motors, unchanged at 40 1/2 on 21,700 shares. Next came North American Aviation, off 3/4 at 31 1/4 and Standard Oil (New Jersey), off 1/4 at 37 1/4.

U.S. Steel gained 1/4, Bethlehem 1/4 and Youngstown 1/4, while Republica Steel dropped 1/4. Among the coppers, Kennecott dropped 2 1/4, Anaconda 1/4 and Phelps Dodge 1/4.

30-Day Weight Checks Set For Coal Trucks

Revision Of Law Is Being Sought

Trucks delivering coal in Allegany County will have to be weighed empty only once a month under a decision reached yesterday at a conference between Paul M. Fletcher, state's attorney, and the State Department of Weights and Measures.

Mr. Fletcher met here yesterday with Frank N. Smith, College Park, assistant superintendent of weights and measures, and J. DeSales Maher, Midland, area representative of the state agency.

Says Rule Unfair

During the conference, Mr. Fletcher explained that the Maryland code requires that weightmasters may not weigh any loaded truck unless it has been weighed empty within the previous 24 hours to determine its true or tare weight.

The requirement, he said, is unfair in view of the fact that the Court of Appeals has ruled the 24-hour requirement is unreasonable for out-of-state truckers, since it would require them to dump and then reload the coal in order to have the vehicle weighed.

Mr. Smith told Mr. Fletcher that the 30-day tare weight checks will be satisfactory under the circumstances here.

Must Get Slips

His department, he reported, has contacted the Attorney General's office, seeking to have the public law changed so it will be practical and equitable, and apply equally to Maryland and out-of-state coal deliveries.

Mr. Fletcher said the 30-day rule will continue in effect here, pending legislative action.

There is no change in the law that coal truckers must have coal weighed by Maryland licensed weightmasters, who must make out slips in triplicate.

One of the slips is kept for record by the weightmaster. The second must be signed by the trucker and delivered to the customer, and the trucker must retain the third.

Former Local Couple Escape Gas Explosion

A former Cumberland couple and their small daughter escaped serious injury yesterday when their unoccupied apartment was badly damaged by a gas explosion in another apartment in the building in which they reside in Frederick.

The explosion occurred about 12:30 p. m. when another resident of the four-apartment unit apparently attempted to commit suicide and turned on all the gas burners of a kitchen stove, according to police.

Mrs. Eugene Clark said last night she was visiting her parents in Cumberland with her daughter, and her husband was at work, leaving their apartment unoccupied. They will be forced to find other quarters to live, she said, as their apartment was badly damaged.

Mrs. Clark is the former Miss Ann Mooney, daughter of Joseph K. Mooney, mechanical superintendent of the Times and Allegany Company.

Frederick police said Mike Novello, 36, suffered first and second degree burns when a spark from an exhaust or from a motor in the refrigerator in his apartment set off the natural gas in the sealed-up apartment.

Hospital attendants said Novello's condition was listed as "satisfactory" and that he probably would recover.

Authorities said Novello sealed off his apartment and turned on the kitchen stove gas burners in the suicide attempt. He left a note tacked to the door of the apartment to tell his young son who was in school at the time not to enter the room. The man's wife was working at the time, they added.

The explosion blew off the kitchen door and severely damaged the interior of the Novello apartment. The walls of the apartment unit were badly cracked and in danger of collapse.

Fire which broke out was prevented from spreading when a huge water main was burst by the force of the explosion and flooded most of the apartments in the dwelling.

Four Frederick volunteer fire companies answered the alarm and put out the blaze.

The unit in which the blast occurred was part of a group of apartment dwellings called Stewart Manor on the northern outskirts of Frederick. There are approximately 80 apartments in the buildings.

Cresap DAR Chapter Names 'Good Citizen'

MISS LOIS JANE SWEITZER

Lois Jane Sweitzer of Shaft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin T. Sweitzer, a senior at Beall High School, Frostburg, has been chosen the area winner of the annual DAR Good Citizen competition, according to an announcement by Mrs. Harry Stern, chairman of the Cresap Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution good citizens committee.

Mrs. Stern noted that other school winners in the county included Miss Donna Nield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Nield, 111 Grand Avenue, representing Fort Hill High School; Miss Susan Vanorsdale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Vanorsdale, 416 Hammond Street, Westernport, representing Bruce High School; Miss Janet Platt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Millard Platt, Oldtown, representing Oldtown High School; Miss Barbara Mann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mann, 131 Cumberland Street, representing Allegany High School, and Miss Sandra Dillon, daughter of Mr. Helen Dillon, of Dudley, Lonaconing, representing Valley High School.

Miss Sweitzer competed with winners from other high schools in the county for the honor, and is now a contender for state-wide honors in the Maryland DAR competition. The state winner will be announced in Baltimore at a DAR conference on April 3. Mrs. R. Finley Thompson, Rose Hill Avenue, is state chairman of the competition.

Entries were judged on their scholastic standing, church, home, school, and community activities, their interests in civic, governmental and other affairs, and their ability as leaders among their associates. Each entry, Mrs. Stern explained, completed a lengthy questionnaire about herself, and answered questions pertaining to government, especially a democracy, and citizenship.

Miss Sweitzer represented her school in the "I Speak For Democracy" contest. She was princess in the May Queen's Court on May Day last year. She played in the all-county band in 1955-56, served as vice president of the Senior Music Chorus that same year, and was a member of the senior band last year and this.

In the eighth grade, Miss Sweitzer was secretary of her class in 1953. She was a member of the Beall High Glee Club and Chorus from 1952 to 1956. She is a member of the Dramatic Club and the Nurses Club, and is active in the Future Teachers of America. She wants to become a teacher and has shown aptitude in this direction by tutoring other students.

In 1954 she won the school declamation contest and served on the yearbook staff in 1955-56. She is a student forum representative; was treasurer of her sophomore class and secretary-treasurer of her Junior Class. This year she is president of the Future Teachers of America and is assistant secretary of the Student Forum. She is also secretary to the Area Future Teachers of America Council.

Miss Sweitzer has been an honor student for five years, is a member of the National Honor Society and is president of the Beall chapter of the National Honor Society this year.

In church work, she is an active member of the Methodist Church and takes part in activities of the Methodist Youth Fellowship.

Physicians on duty yesterday were Dr. Ralph W. Ballin and Dr. Calvin Hadidian.

Two new Gallon Club members were registered, Robert W. Lynn, Fort Ashby, W. Va., and Raymond J. Morgert, Hyndman, Pa.

Four new Two-Gallon Club members were recorded. They are Edward Nevy, 30 Wempe Drive; Charles W. Powell, 713 Patterson Avenue; Ernest B. Treat, 704 Piedmont Avenue; and W. Clyde Brooks, Ridgeley, W. Va.

The next visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile will be on March 4 in Cumberland and March 5 in Westernport.

Barbers Meet Today

The February meeting of Barbers Local 314 will be conducted today at 7:45 p. m. in the Labor Temple, according to Frank Greco, president, who urges members to be present.

Allegany County Youth Delegation Names Model Legislature Candidates

The Allegany County delegation to the Youth and Government's Model Legislature met and nominated candidates for state offices at Central YMCA Sunday.

Bidding for posts at the first Youth and Government session to be held March 9 at College Park, will be Eugene Kidwell, Beall for governor; Miss Barbara Mann of Allegany, for president of the Senate; Robert Paye, of Allegany, for speaker of the house; Conrad Filsinger, Beall, for chaplain of the Senate; Donald Turley, Allegany, for chaplain of the House; Miss Anna Grace Baer of Beall, for clerk of the Senate; and William Brown of Fort Hill, clerk of the House.

The statewide program for the Model Legislature to be held in Annapolis later this year was discussed and preparations were made at Sunday's meeting which 45 delegation representatives attended.

Lawrence H. Dehn, Central YMCA program secretary, outlined new requirements issued by the state committee headed by Sam Hopkins of Baltimore. He stated that this year the Allegany County delegation has been assigned 37 delegate posts.

Another delegation meeting will be held in Frostburg Sunday, February 17, following the Allegany County-Hi-Y Council's next meeting. All county bills will be presented at this session, Mr. Dehn said.

Retail Clerks, A & P Agree On New Pact

Wage Increases Are Effective Feb. 25

Ratification of a new agreement between Retail Clerks Local No. 886 and the A & P Tea Company was announced here yesterday.

William R. Hartman, president and business agent of the union, said the pact was ratified by the membership at a meeting January 31 in the Allegany Labor Temple.

The agreement covers A & P stores in Cumberland, Frostburg, Lonaconing and Westernport, Md. and Keyser, Romney and Petersburg, W. Va., and becomes effective on February 25.

To Get Increases

Wage increases negotiated in the pact include 10 cents an hour for full time female employees, 12½ cents an hour for full-time male employees and 12½ cents an hour for part-time workers.

Under working conditions it provides that those relieving certain department heads shall receive the pay of the department head during the relief time. The provision is effective in super markets in Cumberland and Keyser or any other store where a relief department head is appointed. All employees working night shifts will receive 12½ cents an hour premium pay for all time worked after doors are locked until opening time.

Wages for part-time employees now range from $1.30½ an hour starting rate to $1.40½, depending upon length of service.

Uniform Pact Set

For full-time workers, wage rates in small stores now range from $54 to $67.50 a week, depending upon service. In super markets, full-time wages start at $57 and go to $71.50 a week, according to time served with the company, and salaries of department heads vary from $78.25 to $107, depending upon the department and the skill required to operate it.

Included in the agreement is a provision that all stores, both large and small, will be placed under one contract with the same wage rates for all stores, at the expiration of the new agreement.

Pittsburgh Firm Gets B & O Job

The Harrison Construction Company, Inc., of Pittsburgh, has been awarded the contract for grading and drainage work on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's new yard and terminal facilities here.

The railroad did not disclose the size of the bid, but construction sources here said the cost will exceed $1,000,000.

Bids on the contract, which includes grading and drainage work for the new yard between Virginia Avenue and the Mexico Farnas Road, were opened by the B&O in Baltimore Friday.

Estimated to cost about $13,000,000, the project got under way last October.

Already under contract and over 20 per cent done is a million-dollar archway over Evitts Creek which will support 16 tracks.

When completed, the Cumberland facilities will provide the B&O with its largest and most modern car classification yard.

New YMCA Secretary Arrives

B. U. Smith, right, new executive secretary of Central YMCA, is greeted at his office yesterday by Ernest B. Treat, president of the local organization, as H. D. Barber, member of the YMCA board of directors looks on. Mr. Smith takes over the post vacated by Winfield H. Adam. He is former executive secretary of the Anne Arundel County YMCA in Annapolis and was chairman of the Anne Arundel County Community Chest, Inc.

Doub Succeeds Robertson As MD President

James E. Robertson, manager of the Social Security office here, has resigned as president of the Allegany-Garrett Muscular Dystrophy Chapter, and is being succeeded by Albert A. Doub, local attorney, vice president of the chapter.

Mr. Robertson, who has been president of the unit since May of 1956, said he is resigning because of increased business activities.

Mr. Doub will fill the unexpired term of Mr. Robertson until the annual election which has been tentatively set for May.

Francis A. Kenney, secretary of the chapter, has written a letter to W. M. Petrea, secretary-treasurer of the Kelly Employees' Charity Fund of the local tire plant in acknowledgment of the receipt of $300 from the organization in the recent MD drive.

A breakdown of contributions shows that employees residing in Allegany County gave $240 or 80 per cent; Mineral County, W. Va., $24, or eight per cent; Bedford County, Pa., $21, seven per cent; Hampshire County, W. Va., and Somerset County, Pa., each $6 or two per cent, and Garrett County, $3 or one per cent.

During the recent meeting, Chief Virgil A. Parker, of the Cumberland Fire Department, campaign chairman, pointed out $1,651.80 including the $300 from the Kelly tire plant, has been forwarded to national headquarters in New York.

Chief Parker said similar employee contributions from other local industrial plants have been given approval and promissory commitments have been made. Additional contributions are expected in the drive.

Brooke Cleared In Slayings

CHICAGO (AP)—An efficiency expert held on morals charges has been cleared, police say, of any connection with the 1955 slaying of three Chicago schoolboys and the slaying of an Evanston, Ill., Boy Scout.

Police said lie detector tests conducted Saturday showed William Rexford Brooke, 39, had no knowledge of the slayings. Brooke is a former resident of Cumberland, Md.

Brooke was questioned, they said, about the slayings of Robert Peterson, 14, John Schuessler, 13, and John's brother, Anton, 11, the boys' beaten and strangled bodies were found Oct. 18, 1955, in a forest preserve area northwest of Chicago.

Brooke also was questioned by police about the slaying of Peter Gorham, 12, a Boy Scout from suburban Evanston who was found shot to death Aug. 14, 1955, in a woods near Muskegon, Mich.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lewis, Boonsboro, announce the birth of a daughter Saturday in Frederick Memorial Hospital. The mother is the former Miss Helen Borror, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arlie Borror of Cresaptown. The father is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Lewis, RD 5, city.

Dr. and Mrs. James R. Shinholt, 627 Garrett Street, Somerset, Pa., announce the birth of a son last Friday in Somerset Community Hospital. Smith Assumes Duties As Secretary Of YMCA

Following a staff conference yesterday morning, B. U. Smith, new executive secretary of Central YMCA, assumed his duties here, taking over the position vacated the first of the year by Winfield H. Adam.

Mr. Smith's first official act was to call the conference with the members of the organization's staff in a general "get acquainted" session.

He spent much of the remainder of the day orienting himself with his office and meeting with many local businessmen, civic leaders and directors of the YMCA.

The former Anne Arundel County YMCA executive secretary, arrived in Cumberland late Sunday evening and is residing at the "Y" temporarily until he and his family can locate a house.

Mrs. Clela Smith and the couple's two children, Wayne, a senior at Annapolis High School, and Jacqueline, an eighth grade student at Annapolis Junior High, will remain in Annapolis until the end of the school year before joining Mr. Smith in Cumberland.

The new secretary was greeted at his office yesterday morning by Ernest B. Treat, assistant Allegany County tax collector and president of the local YMCA, and Harold D. Barber, member of the YMCA board of directors.

The YMCA officials reviewed National YMCA Week which closed Saturday during which 1,600-member local organization celebrated its 83d anniversary.

Court Grants PSC Delay

Chief Judge George Henderson has signed an order in Allegany County Circuit Court giving the Public Service Commission of Maryland until February 19 to file its answer in the appeal of the recent gas rate increase filed by the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland and the County Commissioners of Allegany County.

Originally, the PSC, which includes Stanford Hoff, chairman; Frank Harper and Wilmer Fell Davis, had been ordered to file an answer in an appeal on or before January 29.

In its petition for a delay in the deadline for filing an answer, the PSC observed that since the appeal had been filed a decision has been handed down by the Federal Power Commission which has reduced the cost of natural gas to the Cumberland and Allegany Gas Company.

The PSC, through its staff has conducted a study to determine whether this reduction would require a change in its order of November 9 which granted the rate increase to the C & A Gas Company. The PSC petition was filed by Attorney Leon H. Pierson of Baltimore.

Over the weekend, Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, and Gorman E. Getty, county attorney, received letters from the PSC which indicated that no change in the PSC order of November 9 will be made.

Equity Suit Filed

Helen Clinedinst has filed an equity suit in Allegany County Circuit Court against John Paul Clinedinst.

Social Studies Teacher Begins Today At Fort Hill

Andrew C. Agnew, 431 Vine Street, Westernport, today assumes duties as social studies teacher at Fort Hill High School.

He will succeed Walter D. Lee, who has resigned after one semester on the Fort Hill faculty. Mr. Lee will become head of customer relations with the Pennsylvania Glass Sand Corporation at Berkeleyside Springs, W. Va.

A 1951 graduate of Keyser High School, Mr. Agnew attended Shenandoah College, Dayton, Va., for one semester; Potomac State College at Keyser for three semesters, and Frostburg State Teachers College from the fall of 1954 until last Friday. He has completed the requirements for his degree but will not receive it until the formal graduation exercises in June.

Mr. Agnew, who is 24, is married and the father of two children. He has been on the Dean's List at Frostburg the past two semesters. He did his prac-

Goodman Gets Going-Over On Watch Dog Plan

Senators Angered By Suggestion

By LOUIS PANOS

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 4 (AP)—A Baltimore senator's suggestion that financial "watch dog" committees be set up in Maryland brought a round of rare chastisement on the Senate floor tonight.

Sen. Phillip H. Goodman (D-Balto 5th) proposed the committees in a resolution introduced less than three hours before the session began. But before that, he had announced a plan to sponsor the resolution and an account appeared in a Baltimore newspaper.

Several senators, taking the floor on point of personal privilege at the end of tonight's session, indirectly chided, criticized and rebuked Goodman. They mentioned work being done by the Senate Finance Committee, indicated they felt Goodman's "watch-dog" proposal was uncalled for, and Sen. Della (D-Balto 6th) even offered to surrender his Finance Committee seat to Goodman if that would help the committee function better.

But it was Sen. Turnbull (D-Balto County), Finance Committee chairman, who capped the flow of critical oratory.

He called Goodman's attention "to the following facts":

1. Pending before the committee is a bill which would prevent heads of state departments from initiating salary raises for their personnel unless the raises are called for in the budget.

2. Another bill before the committee would restrict budget amendments "to obviate the necessity" for subcommittees like those proposed by Goodman.

"The committee is always happy to receive the suggestions, the thoughts, the counsel, and the benefit of the advice of any other member of the Senate, or of the House of Delegates, the public, the executive or any other state official," said Turnbull.

But he said he hoped these suggestions would be "well intended and made for the purpose of being of assistance to the committee, to (Continued on Page 8, Col. 3)

County Council PTA Endorses Library, College

A resolution was adopted and directed to the Board of Allegany County Commissioners last night by the Allegany County Council of Parent Teacher Associations, urging the commissioners to take necessary steps to establish a county library.

Dr. Adam Baer, chairman of the associations Legislative committee, outlined the plan and stated that the county is losing state and federal library funds annually because the board members fail to act.

Dr. Baer explained to the 200 members representing all PTA units in the county, as they met last night at West Side School, that an act passed by the General Assembly in 1945 empowers county commissioners to create county-wide libraries. It also requires that the county levy a tax of not less than two cents on each $100 of assessed valuation for the library.

Such a tax in Allegany County, he noted, would yield $30,157. For that amount the county would receive $14,329 a year in state aid and $10,667 a year in federal aid under Public Law 597 adopted by Congress last year.

The Parent Teacher Council also adopted a resolution favoring the proposal of Western Maryland Section of the American Chemical Society, to establish a liberal arts college here, Dr. Charles Orlick outlined the proposal to the council, explained the work done on the idea to date and said many groups and individuals have expressed interest.

He noted that the Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly is sponsoring a resolution to have the State Board of Education make a comprehensive survey here to show the need, and that they have individually pledged their support.

The Association voted unanimously to aid the promotion of the proposed college in every way they can.

William Donahue, guidance councillor at Allegany High School, spoke on student guidance and outlined his work.
